Health workers at risk

775 attacks on NHS staff at work over the last four years – and only one prosecution

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

THE number of health workers assaulted in Milton Keynes is on the rise.

Latest figures reveal that there have been 775 assaults on staff while at work since 2003. Only once has someone faced prosecution.

The statistics make grim reading for staff.

The assaults include 123 that have caused injury, 358 episodes of physical violence such as throwing furniture and 30 sexual threats.

There have also been 234 assaults without injury, 22 incidents of vandalism, four instances of verbal abuse and four episodes of violence from the public which includes family and friends of patients.

Mark Lancaster, Conservative MP for North East Milton Keynes says the figures are another example of the Government's empty promises on zero tolerance.

He said: "These really are shocking figures showing how yet again Labour have talked tough but done absolutely nothing.

"Our health workers at the hospital and throughout the city are doing a wonderful job and the very least they deserve is the piece of mind that they do so with the complete protection of the law.

"Our doctors and nurses have been badly let down by a Government that appears keen to talk tough but do little in practice to support them."

The Healthcare Commission is worried by the high levels of violence and abuse being experienced by staff in the NHS.

In Milton Keynes, the number of assaults bucked the national trend by rising from 162 between March 2003 and February 2004, to 214 between March 2006 and February 2007.

The Healthcare Commission's staff survey in 2006 revealed that six per cent of staff in Primary Care Trusts (PCT) had experienced physical violence from patients or their relatives in the previous 12 months. It had decreased from nine per cent the year before.

Barbara Kennedy, chief executive of the PCT, said: "It is disappointing that there has been an increase in violence against staff locally.

"It is unacceptable that dedicated staff working on behalf of the community should face this level of aggression whilst doing their job.

"We must continue to work for a safer and more secure environment for staff and patients."

Figures released in November showed that 56 people had been prosecuted for attacking NHS staff in the South East in the past year, compared to just one in Milton Keynes.

Phyllis Starkey, MP for Milton Keynes South West, said: "Whether assaults are occuring in the health service or anywhere else, it is up to the police and the Crown Prosecution Service to ensure that prosecutions are brought forward.

"The Government makes it absolutely clear that there should be zero tolerance of any harrassment or assaults on health service staff.

"I am very disappointed that local police haven't taken action."

City NHS workers take equivalent of 40 years off work

MK Hospital staff are 'on the sick'

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

HOSPITAL staff took the equivalent of FORTY years off sick last year.

The shocking figures have been released to this newspaper following a request made under the Freedom of Information (FOI) Act.

Nurses and midwives clocked up the most days off due to sickness, with over 6,545 between them.

Ancillary staff at Milton Keynes General Hospital racked up 2,492 days off sick from April 2006 until March 2007.

The request for information was made in response to national reports that NHS staff are under stress.

In the most recent NHS staff survey by the Healthcare Commission, 33 per cent of those that responded said they suffered work-related stress. It was the most common cause of injury or illness in the workplace.

But the hospital was unable to provide a breakdown of why its staff were off work.

Dawn Budd, FOI manager at MK General, said in her letter to MKNEWS: "Unfortunately the reason for staff sickness is very rarely given, we therefore do not hold this information."

Senior hospital managers had nearly eight and a half months off between them while technical staff had 1,436 sick days.

Sick days among all hospital staff totalled almost 14,515.

One hospital staff member - who did not want to be named - said: "On the back of our pay slips it says that if you're off sick you're supposed to give a general sort of illness, for example, back pain.

"So if they wanted to they could collect data about why people are off. We see a lot of stress. Pressures everywhere in the NHS are profound, and we are a growing authority so the pressures are much greater.

"The trust understands it has a duty of care to its patients, but what they don't realise is that they have a duty of care to their staff.

"Stress doesn't just go away when you go back to work, but there is no follow-up care."

The hospital added that only two operations had been cancelled due to staff sickness, while 10,439 have been carried out.

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Hospital said: "

Milton Keynes Hospital NHS Trust has extensive policies and procedures to support staff who are unable to work due to sickness.

Following each leave of absence due to illness staff talk to their line managers, who check they are healthy enough to return to work. Extra support is offered to staff who take a number of days off sick in a short period.

The trust keeps in contact with staff who are on sick leave for extended periods and has various programmes to help them come back to work when they are ready.

The Occupational Health department provides confidential help and advice for staff who are feeling under stress, ranging from a confidential chat to formal structured counselling.

England's World Cup stars at sports fair

Left: Jack Charlton and George Cohen hold up one of the many world cup photos available for fans to have them sign. Above: Frank Bruno meets James Pollard

STARS of the sporting world were in Milton Keynes at the weekend as part of Sportsmania.

Eight legends from England's 1996 World Cup winning team were reunited for the country's biggest sports memorabilia fair.

Gordon Banks, Jack Charlton, George Cohen, Ray Wilson, Nobby Stiles, Roger Hunt, Martin Peters and Geoff Hurst topped a star-studded list.

The collectors fair is the first of its kind, following on from the success of Collectormania.

It is the brainchild of Milton Keynes' entrepreneurs Mark Woollard and Jason Joiner, who launched the Collectormania concept in 2002 after a series of local collectors fairs proved popular at leisure centres in Stantonbury and Woughton.

Sportsmania offered fans the chance to buy memorabilia as well as meet their idols in person.

England rugby stars Ben Cohen, Matt Dawson, boxing legends Sir Henry Cooper and Frank Bruno and former Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade were also in attendance.

This sign outside The Crooked Billet reminds people that the national smoking ban begins on Sunday

Smoke Detectors to go undercover

ONE restaurant appears to have found a novel way to cash in on the national smoking ban which starts on Sunday.

The award-winning restaurant The Crooked Billet in Newton Longville has put up this joke sign outside its premises advertising ashtrays for sale.

Restaurant owner, John Gilchrist, said: "We have put the sign out at the weekends for a bit of humour. We had a few comments.

"Instead of saying smoking will be banned here on July 1, it is a nicer way to remind people."

From next week Milton Keynes Council officers, dubbed 'The Smoke Detectors' will patrol the city's clubs, pubs, shops and restaurants ensuring the new smoking ban is enforced.

Chief environmental health officer Phil Winsor admitted his staff will be taking part in undercover operations but, unlike in other parts of the country, they will not be imposing on-the-spot £50 fines on people.

He said: "There has been a massive amount of national publicity and by the due date no-one should know nothing about it.

"We will be out and about. We will be undercover so to speak, putting our staff into the hospitality sector.

"But we won't be making a scene in the middle of a pub.

"We will be taking a fairly low key approach, but if there is someone who is persistent we will use the law as it was intended."

He added that officers will have the power to issue fixed penalty notices, but are being encouraged to take a softly, softly approach and speak to landlords on the following day.

Road deaths to rise

– so says MK Council which has predicted high figures for next year because this year's are so low

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Council is predicting there will be more deaths on the city's roads next year than this.

In line with Government practice the council has to predict the numbers of serious road accidents each year.

The so-called 'targets' were passed at full council last week.

The estimated number of deaths or serious injuries on the road this year is 122.

But a target for 136 deaths or serious injuries, 14 more than this year, has been set for 2007/2008.

Cllr Liz Campbell said: "There is something quite sick about the council setting a target for road deaths which is actually more than the number of road deaths that were sustained this year.

"It's almost an encouragement for people to drive recklessly.

"Why is the council planning for an increase in fatalities on its road?

"It may be that the council has set such a high target in order to be sure that they will undershoot it, but this is a cynical way of manipulating an issue that the public takes very seriously."

Their initial target for death or serious injury on the road for 2006/2007 was 143. But in light of figures so far, the council reduced the estimated total to 122.

The council says that next year's target is higher due to the fact that this year's figure is abnormally low.

A council spokesman said: "This is in line with Government practice to predict - and reduce - serious and fatal road accidents from 2000 to 2010. Of course nobody enjoys making these projections but we have to plan ahead.

"But we are making progress in reducing such accidents, through our education initiatives such as the Safer Routes to Schools schemes, traffic calming measures, closing gaps in central reservations and the like.

"Between 1994 and 1998 there were on average 188 serious or fatal accidents a year.

"That figure has fallen signifcantly since then, and as the projections show is predicted to fall even further through our initiatives, despite the ongoing increase in population and traffic on the roads in Milton Keynes."

It's a dog's life - and more so if you're a dog

SIR – I write in support of Amy Burgess.

As the owner of bull-mastiffs and the present owner of one Alsatian and two Alsatian and border collies, I know exactly what Amy is talking about.

I recall an incident some years ago, when walking into Bletchley with my two 'bullys' both of whom were on leads, a Yorkshire terrier appeared from nowhere and began snapping at the heels of my dogs, both of whom were, as can be imagined, somewhat upset at having a snarling ball of fluff sinking its teeth into their legs.

Quite understandably, both of my boys tried to defend themselves.

You should have heard the language directed at me by the lovely old lady owner of said Yorkshire. My dogs were accused of being vicious and out of control simply because they chose defence to flight (impossible with me on the ends of their leads).

Humans and dogs are much more likely to be attacked and bitten by small, pampered lap dogs, than by the majority of the larger breeeds.

Maybe some of these doting owners should be sent on courses to learn control of their little darlings.

Finally, I understood that it is still an offence to allow a dog off the lead in a public place – something forgotten by a lot of MK dog owners.

If this is no longer the case, could someone please let me know

M Chambers
Garraways, Coffee Hall

Upset by tragic death

SIR – I don't usually bother too much about screaming headlines in the gutter press but because I thought the MK NEWS didn't usually fall into that category and also because this front-page report disgusted me so much, I thought I must let you know how insensitive, immature and ignorant your report on June 20 is, in my opinion.

The woman in question died, tragically, on her way home from holiday in front of her three children on Monday night.

The family are probably still in the process of informing relatives and dealing with the children's distress. Yet on Wednesday you published unnecessarily detailed, explicit details such as 'they took her body to the back of the plane' and 'you could tell from her face that the woman was dead' and 'she had a very swollen stomach… and so on

This was a person. This report was insensitive to the utmost and voyeuristic to say the least. I thought your newspaper was a bit more intelligent than this offering indicates

And your silly little girl of a 'reporter' posing (looking so proud and oh, so important) on the front page – like some sort of hero – what is all that about?

Alicia needs to learn that being a reporter doesn't mean she can forget about being a human being.

This report read like an exciting field trip, rather than a tragic, upsetting incident that will stay with this unfortunate family forever.

Liberal Democrat claims are just pie in the sky

SIR – I write in disgust having just read the latest Liberal Democrat leaflet which thanks 'residents for signing the petition' asking for an area of footpath to have streetlighting, work that has been done and will soon be connected to the power supply.

When I contacted my Lib Dem councillor about this issue two years ago he said nothing could be done as it would cost so much and I was left in no doubt his party would not helping.

Having read so many of their leaflets telling us how much they do for the community I felt quite let down especially as a disabled person becoming more worried about safety, not just mine but many others as more and more reports of dodgy people lurking in the dark were circulating.

I then decided to contact my MP Mark Lancaster and what a difference in attitude, before I knew it site meetings were taking place and letters being exchanged between his office, the police and the council, his Conservative colleague Laura Kenyon then arranged a petition, dutifully collected many signatures and presented it to the council.

I was kept informed throughout and have to say I was very impressed.

Net result, new street lights. Lib Dem involvement, nil.

It makes me wonder how often they get up to this type of practice and I will certainly be taking their claims with a pinch of salt from now on.

Steven Shuffle
Sorrell Drive, Newport Pagnell

I agree that the facts do need to be reported, but surely there are fair, reasonable and acceptable ways of doing so, and this was not the case on this occasion.

You owe this tragic family a huge apology for your lack of foresight and humanity by publishing this story in this manner, and so soon after the event.

You could have covered this tragedy in a much more subtle and responsible manner.

I only hope that you have some sort of code of practice that should prevent this from happening, or alternatively, be taken to task by the family concerned.

Steve Ryan
Stantonbury, sent by email

Lib Dem housing U-turn

SIR – The Liberal Democrat administration on Milton Keynes Council has just performed the most astonishing U-turn in its housing policy.

When they came to power four years ago they slashed the planned amount of affordable housing to be built in the New City from Labour's 50 per cent to just 30 per cent of all housing to be built – social rented housing (run by the council or by housing associations) would form a mere five per cent of all new houses to be built, down from 25 per cent.

This was the policy they campaigned for re-election on during last May's council elections – Labour called for 25 per cent social rented housing.

Now a bare five weeks later they have changed their minds, and propose to increase the percentage of rented housing back up to Labour's 25 per cent.

The Lib Dems have admitted that Labour was right all along and that their previous policy was a huge mistake, leaving lots of people without anywhere to live.

An apology would seem in order from the Cabinet to all those in Milton Keynes who can't afford to buy a house for the lost council houses in developments already authorised in Central Milton Keynes and Campbell Park that they might have been able to rent, and to all those voters in Milton Keynes who voted for them under false pretences.

But the biggest apology is due to people who won't qualify for social rented housing, but who still can't afford to buy a house – the people for whom shared ownership is often a good option.

Under the Lib Dems' new proposals, the percentage of shared ownership houses to be built is to be cut to 5 per cent of all new starts.

That's a real kick in the teeth for a lot of people looking for somewhere to live that they can afford,

Martin Petchey
Polruan Place, Fishermead

Denied an NHS dentist

SIR – After reading the comments in your newspaper by Phyliss Starkey MP about no one being without an NHS dentist I would like to disagree.

I have lived in Milton Keynes for 20 years and until last April have had a very good dentist.

Unfortunately when I went for my usual six month check up I was told I was no longer registered with them unless I took out their dental health plan.

Now, as far as I am concerned, I pay my national insurance and so therefore my treatment should cost the going rate for an NHS dentist.

I felt I was being blackmailed into taking out their dental plan.

I did not do that, and so for the past year have not had an NHS dentist. Would Mrs Starkey like to explain that one. I was so cross at her statement – she should get the facts right

Anne-Marie Jones
Sent by email

Misleading statistic

SIR – Two of the three letters attacking Labour MP Dr Phyllis Starkey over NHS dentists and praising Conservative MP Mark Lancaster refer to more than 120,000 'waiting for access to an NHS dentist in the MK area'.

It is enlightening to note that the non-political PCT supports the statements of Dr Starkey and not those of Mark Lancaster.

From Mr Lancaster's own reported comments, the true meaning of the 120,000 figure is evident. It is simply the number of people not registered with an NHS dentist.

As one of those people, I am most displeased to be part of a statistic used in a misleading way by Mr Lancaster to attack the Labour government.

He and others should remember the severely run-down state of the NHS generally in 1997 after 18 years of Conservative government.

Thanks to a Labour government, there have been significant improvements with greater staff numbers, better salaries and many new hospitals.

David R Newens
Kindleton , Great Linford

Putting record straight

SIR – I have received a copy of your newspaper today and was very annoyed at the inaccurate and unhelpful comments given to one of your reporters regarding the recent incident concerning my business.

These were made by a Mr Ingoe from the Cannon pub.

I decided not to give any quotes to any newspapers because I did not wish to give the matter any increased publicity and explained to the reporter from your paper that it could possibly give someone else the thought that a ram-raid might be profitable even though this would not be the case.

The particular sentence which has annoyed me is that where Mr Ingoe claims that the car went straight through the shutter – it did not – and that there were 'jewels everywhere' – there were not.

The car collided with our watch and gift window which does not contain any jewellery, and the items in this window were either all smashed or left under the considerable debris resulting from the crash.

Most of our watches and all of our gold jewellery has to be removed from the window displays each evening – our insurers would not have it any other way.

I appreciate the opportunity to put the record straight.

DJ's benefits mix ends in suspended sentence

A DJ who unlawfully claimed nearly £20,000 in benefits has received a suspended prison sentence.

John O'Brien, 32, of Copeland Close, Brownswood, claimed Job Seeker's Allowance, housing benefit, and council tax benefit, over roughly a two-year period, starting in April 2004.

In that time he was paid a total of £19,580.01.

He told Aylesbury Crown Court on Friday that the money had gone directly into his girlfriend's bank account, and he had never benefited from it.

But Judge Mayo sentenced him to six months jail, suspended for a year, as well as ordering him to do 100 hours unpaid work, and pay £100 costs.

Mr O'Brien had previously admitted three counts of benefit fraud at an earlier hearing before Milton Keynes Magistrates

The case was brought jointly by the Department of Work & Pensions and Milton Keynes Council who will now both be pursuing Mr O' Brien for the money.

A council spokesman said: "Hopefully this will help to continue to broadcast the message that if you claim something you are not entitled too, and we catch you, we will prosecute."

Emma Wheatcroft

LAST week MK NEWS reported that former police officer Emma Wheatcroft had been jailed after pleading guilty to nine charges at Kingston-upon-Thames Crown Court.

Our report incorrectly stated that she pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to supply cocaine. We would like to point out that Emma Wheatcroft was not charged with this offence and apologise for any inconvenience caused.

City's schools to get smart over intruders

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

ALL schools in Milton Keynes are being provided with specialist kits to protect their property.

SmartWater is sprayed onto thieves breaking into properties and cannot be washed off.

It is also used to mark property with an invisible liquid which shows up under ultra-violet light and contains a unique DNA-style code.

The scheme has been introduced by city police using funding from the Government.

Those who have been sprayed by SmartWater will glow under the lights and the liquid's 'code' can be used to place them at the scene of a particular crime.

A representative from every school has been invited to a launch this Thursday where there will be a presentation and a demonstration of SmartWater.

The kits, which include a lesson plan to teach pupils about SmartWater, will then be given to the schools.

Jan Hodgkinson, crime reduction advisor, said: "SmartWater is working really well in Milton Keynes, as a crime prevention strategy to help reduce burglary, robbery and car crime.

"We are delighted to be giving schools the kit to mark their property, ensuring that if it is stolen, we have a better chance of returning it to them. We have also included a lesson plan so pupils can learn how the system works and about the use of DNA technology.

"We hope by teaching pupils about SmartWater, it will be fed back into the community and thieves and burglars will become aware they need to watch out for SmartWater."

John O'Donnel, head teacher of the Radcliffe School in Wolverton, said:

Main picture: A mobile phone is marked withwith SmartWater. Inset: SmartWater's effect

"This sort of thing does have quite a use for us. We haven't been subjected to a lot of theft but anything that is a deterrant is of use to us. What will be as important as the SmartWater, is the signage that goes with it."

The presentation will take place at Shenley Brook End School.

Timing's right for MK's MPs

THE city's MPs are among the quickest to respond to their constituents, according to a new survery.

Mark Lancaster, MP for North East Milton Keynes, came 21st out of the country's 646 MPs.

The survey measures response rates to letters and emails from their constituents according to the latest survey carried out by independent parliamentary watchdog Writetothem.com.

Dr Phyllis Starkey, MP for Milton Keynes South West, came 84th out of all MPs.

A sample of constituents are asked whether or not they have had a speed substantially response from their MP during an annual secret survey.

One hundred and eleven out of Mr Lancaster's 121 constituents surveyed were satisfied, while 92 out of Dr Starkey's 107 surveyed were satisfied.

Both received the top rating of 'Very High' with regards to their response rate.

Mr Lancaster said: "I do try and respond to constituents concerns as soon as possible and it is a credit to my office staff that for the most part we seem to be getting it right.

"Unfortunately because of the complex nature of some of the requests it is not always possible to reply as promptly as I would like, but I will continue to try to improve my response rates."

Dr Starkey added: "I always try to respond to my constituents as quickly as I can."

(WARNING DO TRY THIS AT HOME!)

Milton Keynes Science Festival

CALLING all budding scientists get involved in this years Milton Keynes Science Festival.

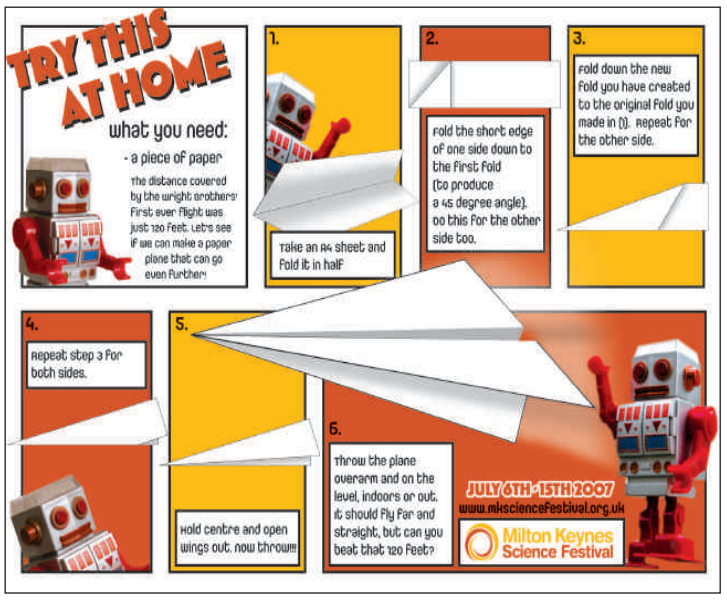
Milton Keynes will host its first annual science festival from July 6 to 15 as part of the Milton Keynes 40th anniversary celebrations.

Each week in the run up to the exciting event Milton Keynes Science Festival has been teaming up with MK NEWS to run an experiment of the Week for you to try at home.

Your mission this week is to design and build a paper plane that flies further than the Wright Bros managed on their first flight? They flew for 120 feet. Can you do better?

That is the challenge from Cranfield University when it throws open its doors to the public on July 14 from 11am 3pm as part of the Milton Keynes Science Festival. Bring your paper airplane on the day and enter the competition. The furthest flight will win a flying lesson from the University's own airfield!

As well as the paper plane competition, Cranfield, one of the country's leading research universities, will be showing some of the work it is doing on climate change and the environment.



Throughout the day there will be talks and demonstrations, including students designs for an 'An Environmentally Friendly Airliner for the Future' and a Virtual Reality aircraft tour,Visitors will also have the opportunity to view some of the University's exciting facilities, including an Airliner Flight Deck Simulator, Virtual Reality Suite and engineering displays.

Spaces are limited. For more information please visit: www.mksciencefestival.org.uk or contact Sarah Bethel on 01234 754934.

With more than 50 events lined up the festival will showcase some of the city's world-class scientific and technical achievements and everyone will be able to learn about Science, Engineering and Technology.

■ Full events listings can be found on www.mksciencefestival.org.uk

No campus for new city university

MILTON Keynes is a step closer to having its own university, but it won't be a traditional campus-style one.

English Partnerships has bought a premises on Silbury Boulevard from which to run a University Centre.

Although final plans are not in place, it is believed the university will make use of IT to allow distance learning.

The Open University will act as the main lessee for the building.

A consortium of higher education partners including Milton Keynes College and Milton Keynes Partnership have agreed on a governance model for the University for MK (UMK).

It aims to keep city students here instead of going to university elsewhere, to forge strong links with local businesses and to develop new enterprise ideas for Milton Keynes.

Jane Hamilton, chief operating officer for Milton Keynes Partnership, said: "What we want it to be, is very much a focal point for 21st century higher education.

"The OU is clearly the right choice as they are world experts in distance learning. We are very pleased they have agreed to take the lead role."

The building will contain offices and teaching space, and will open by January 2008.

Milton Keynes Partnership Committee has put forward £2.1 million of tariff monies towards the cost of refurbishing and fitting out the building.

Additional funding will be sought from the Higher Education Funding Council for England as well as other sources.

Ex-councillor guilty of punching woman he called 'rude bitch'

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A FORMER Milton Keynes councillor has been found guilty of smacking and punching a woman in the face.

Tony Mabbott was convicted of common assault on Thursday following the incident outside Knowles Middle School in Bletchley on June 27 last year.

He was fined a total of £905 including compensation and costs.

It is unknown whether Mr Mabbott, who was a councillor for Bletchley at the time of the incident, will be able to remain in his London job in community safety following the conviction.

Linda Stockbridge, the aggreived, had bruising and swelling to the left side of her face after the attack.

She told the court how Mr Mabbott said 'good morning' to her in a sarcastic tone before calling her a 'rude bitch'.

After a series of retorts, he slapped her face before punching her, causing her to fall to the ground.

She said: "It was hard, I was quite shocked."

Other parents rushed to her aid before one took her into the school and called the police. Four of these parents were called by the prosecution to give evidence.

Amanda Braddish, a parent, said: "I saw Mr Mabbott slap a lady who I now know as Linda, across the face."

Mr Mabbott was later arrested at Bletchley Police Station where he had gone to report the incident himself.

Guilty: Tony Mabbott was fined £150, made to pay £300 compensation and £455 costs

He was pushing his two year old daughter in her buggy at the time of the attack.

The court heard how there was previous 'history' between the Mabbott family after Miss Stockbridge fell out with Mr Mabbott's wife several years ago.

The defence argued that Mr Mabbott had put his arm up to defend himself from Miss Stockbridge.

Defence solicitor Robert Evans said Miss Stockbridge had come towards the former councillor at speed, causing her to lose her footing and fall over.

Both parties claimed that the other had instigated the aggression.

He said: "He called the police himself. That's not the act of a man who has just punched someone in the street."

District Judge Yeargood, sitting at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court said: "My judgement is based on the evidence as a whole, and having looked at that evidence I am satisfied that he did in fact assault Linda Stockbridge. I am also satisfied that he was the aggressor.

"He was not acting in self defence."

Speaking directly to Mr Mabbott he added: "Sentencing you gives me no pleasure. You are someone who has done a lot of good work for the community and a lot of good work with young people around anti-social behaviour.

"I know not what happened on this morning which made you act the way you did."

Following the case, Mr Mabbott's solicitor said: "Obviously we're disappointed with the result, we hoped the district judge would see things from our point of view.

"We are going to be considering an appeal, but first let's let Mr Mabbott digest what has happened today."

The financial penalty was broken down into a £150 fine, £300 compensation and £455 costs.

Stun gun haul led cops to city steroid factory

DANGEROUS chemicals used for producing steroids were discovered at a house in Ashlands.

Police were led to the address, which they described as a steroids factory, at Flexerne Cresent after a package containing 100 stun guns was intercepted at Heathrow airport on Wednesday.

Customs and Excise officers notified Bedfordshire Police to the package which was heading for Spring Road in Bedford.

A haul at that address led them to Milton Keynes where two people were arrested.

Anabolic steroids are class C drugs which are legally sold only by pharmacists with a doctor's prescription for medicinal use.

Possession or importing with intent to supply could lead to 14 years in prison and an unlimited fine.

The drugs, on which people can become psychologically dependent, are often used by bodybuilders and athletes to increase performance.

Three people were arrested at the house in Bedford where police also also found CS spray canisters, BB guns, swords, knuckledusters, smoke grenades, balaclavas and more chemicals.

Detective Constable Mark Stewart, of Bedfordshire Police, said: "We believe this haul was being brought in from the Far East and destined for international markets including Ireland and Sweden."

The five people who were arrested have now been released on police bail while further inquiries are made.

Anyone with further information should contact DC Stewart on 01234 275328.

Bright future for Bletchley firm

A MILTON Keynes company has invented a lightbulb they claim lasts forever.

Ceravision Ltd, based at Bletchley Park, says its new bulb will last longer than the device into which it is inserted.

Tim Reynolds, chief executive of Ceravision said: Continuum 2.4 is truly a breakthrough technology. It will change the way that commercial and industrial lighting develops."

Ceravision has designed a bulb that eliminates electrodes.

The device uses microwaves to transform electricity into light.

400-page bid goes in for canal project

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

D-Day is looming for Milton Keynes Waterway.

The final stage of the Bedford and Milton Keynes Waterway Trust's bid for £25 million has been submitted.

If the waterway is built, it will create a linear water park linking the River Ouse to the Grand Union Canal.

The intention is for it to run from the Grand Union Canal for 6.5km, via Willen Lake, through Broughton Brook Linear Park into the eastern expansion area and up to the Bedfordshire border.

The purpose is to create a green corridor through the Eastern Expansion Area, with provision for boaters, cyclists, walkers and an opportunity to sustain the natural environment for residents.

The bid is a 400 page document that has been constructed following ten years of work and research by local volunteers.

It contains 30 pages of technical drawings, studies and landscape designs.

The Big Lottery Bid committee will review it and decide in the coming months whether Milton Keynes' application will be one of the successful few. It is one of 23 to have been shortlisted.

The trust says it is hopeful that it will secure the money now that it has received full cross party support from the council.

The waterway has been included in both the Milton Keynes Plans and East of England Plans.

Graham Mabbutt, the director of the Trust, said: "We are having a review in early July when they will come to assess us.

"We will have to present the sceme to them and they will ask questions.

"We have now got outline planning permission from Milton Keynes Partnership and the council, which was a condition for the bid. We are quietly hopeful."

Primary school set to grow and grow

MIDDLETON Primary School could become one of the largest in the city.

Parents are to be consulted on proposals to extend the school on Noon Layer Drive, which opened in 2003.

The proposed extension would see each of the seven year groups growing by an extra class from September 2009.

A twelve-week consultation will start in September.

The proposals, to be funded by the council, include an extension for additional classrooms, another multi-use hall, a kitchen to provide hot and cold meals and a community/parents room.

Headteacher Jane Miller said: "Middleton Primary has established itself as a successful and inclusive part of the community. I hope that the extension plans go ahead so that we can continue to offer an excellent education to local children."

MP on the rails

CITY MP Phyllis Starkey has called for further improvements to the city's rail services following the announcement of a new train operator.

Govia has been awarded a contract to run the new West Midlands franchise from November 11, which includes services from Milton Keynes, Bletchley and Wolverton that are currently run by Silverlink County.

Dr Starkey has requested an urgent meeting with Govia to push for further improvements in services and to discuss how the new franchise will affect passengers and businesses in Milton Keynes.

Old garden shed a third class act

AN old railway carriage used as a shed in a back garden has been given a new lease of life.

Two compartments of a railway carriage built in 1870 have stood in the back garden of a house in Anson Road, Wolverton for a number of years.

It was owned by a Railway Works employee who used it as a shed and, three years after his death, his widow has chosen to donate it to a good cause.

On Saturday the carriage was transported to its new home at the Wolverton Community Orchard where it will be renovated.

Denise Islett, project secretary, said: "This carriage has still got its third class sign on the inside of the door and a sign saying 'To prevent consumption (TB) do not spit', it has a lot of character to it."

The plan is to restore one of the compartments with new seats and to build a serving counter and an information station in the rest of the carriage.

Top: The carriage as a garden shed. Right: being crane-lifted onto a transporter. Above: The interior of the carriage and the 'No spitting' sign

'Night stop' scheme set up to cut B&Bs for youngsters

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A FUND of nearly £30,000 has been awarded to schemes to tackle the growing problem of youth homelessness in Milton Keynes.

The money will help a new 'night stop' service and phone line to support young people and parents in the city.

The funding is part of £112,440 of investment to be received by five local authorities and partnerships for their plans to reduce youth homelessness, announced by Housing Minister Yvette Cooper.

It builds on a package of measures announced last year in the Government's National Youth Homelessness Scheme, including a new target to end the use of bed and breakfast accommodation for 16 and 17 year olds by 2010.

MK Council was invited by Communities and Local Government (CLG), set up by Ruth Kelly, to apply for the funding as a problem exists in Milton Keynes with the level of youth homelessness.

Applications were sought for innovative ways to tackle this issue.

MK Council's successful bid for £29,250 included setting up a phone line offering an advice and counselling service, aiming to assist both the young person and parents in communicating, understanding and resolving their issues.

The application also included the possibility of creating a 'night stop' project, which would involve supporting individuals in provision of short term accommodation.

The council hope to find supportive householders who will assist young people in crisis and provide accommodation in a home or family environment

MK Council is due to meet with a CLG specialist advisor next month to confirm how projects will now proceed.

Pam Wharfe, director of housing services, said: "We are delighted to be awarded this funding to help young people avoid becoming homeless and to explore alternative accommodation to bed and breakfast."

MILTON Keynes celebrated its 40th birthday with a massive party in the city.

Thousands of people turned out despite the weather to enjoy in the fun and games.

A host of events took place across MK including a music festival in Campbell Park, fairground rides and attractions, a Noddy roadshow in Midsummer Place, a world record face paint and the Mascot Olympics at the theatre district and Xscape.

Gully Mouse from Gullivers Land was the overall Olympic champion at the 40th birthday's Mascot Olympics organised by the Theatre District.

Gully Mouse beat off tough competition from mascots around the country to become the first ever champion at this crazy event, which is set to become an annual battle of strength, stamina, courage and fun. The crowds were entertained during the six events by these much loved characters, who even with a packed schedule found time to interact with all the kids and collect money for local charity, MK SNAP.

Highlights included Louis from MK Lions losing his trousers during the Midsummer Place Shoppers Walk, Captain Blade from Sheffield United not being able to climb on to the Enjoy Holidays Rodeo Bull, never mind stay on board once he was on top and chaotic scenes at the Xscape Toboggan Plunge

One of the 1966 World Cup winning footballers Martin Peters popped over the Sportsmania event to present the prizes.

Making a tax-efficient Will now, could save your family many thousands of pounds in the future.

Increasing numbers of people, including homeowners, business people and investors, have assets that will be affected by inheritance tax upon their death.

The rapid rise in house prices mean that more and more people's estates will pay inheritance tax.

Making a will puts you in control and helps you to provide lasting security for those who depend on you. Without a will, those who depend on you financially may receive nothing, or your bequest may be held for them in trust unnecessarily. This can leave your loved ones having to make a claim to the Court for financial provision and unnecessary inheritance tax going to the Inland Revenue.

Nil rate band discretionary trust wills are of particular importance for married couples and offer great scope to mitigate the impact of Inheritance Tax on your Estate. This tax saving arises by the solicitor attempting to ensure that each spouse utilises their own nil rate band allowance, currently £300,000. A correctly drafted and administered will can offer a potential Inheritance Tax saving of £120,000.

We are experienced in advising clients on reducing the liability to tax on their estates, both through lifetime arrangements and under their wills, and in preparing trusts and other documents. We are happy to work with other professional advisors, believing in a 'joined up' approach to achieve the best results for the client.

We have specialist solicitors available at all our offices dealing with wills, ranging from simple wills for individuals and married couples to more complex wills including inheritance tax planning, whatever your circumstances.

We also support The Institute of Cancer Research Will for Free Scheme.

MK celebrates its 40th birthday

Enjoying the fun fair in Campbell Park, left

The crowds flock in for Noddy's friends, right

The crowds cheer on favourite Mooie in the Midsummer Place shoppers walk

MK NEWS helped almost 6,000 people have a fun free day out at Eco-Park at the weekend.

As part of the MK40 birthday celebrations MK NEWS teamed up with the city's newest theme park.

Residents had the chance to cut out two golden vouchers from the newspaper over the past two weeks and use them to gain free entry into the park.

Despite the weather people turned out in their thousands to experience the city's newest attraction and celebrate 40 years of MK and they all seemed to have a wonderful day making cookies, learning about evolution and getting involved in recycling.

The visitors were even treated to a green car show. Honda, Lexus and Saab all displayed their hybrid motors and lots of information for people to understand how to be greener in their transportation was dotted around the centre of the park.

The weekend was a huge success and due to its overwhelming popularity Eco-Park has kindly extended the validity of the coupons until this Friday. Just in case you missed out.

Duncan Phillips, Park director, said: "We wanted to give a big present to the residents of MK, in honour of the birthday, we wanted to say, 'look what you have in your city, come and explore it'. We never expected it to be so popular, but we are so pleased it was.

"We don't want anyone who collected their coupons not to have the chance to come and experience the park, to receive their present as it were, so we have extended the date in which you can visit."

The park will be open until 5pm each day. Please note, no new coupons will be issued, only coupons that have not yet been used will be valid.

Can the cram: Sardine Man with MP Mark Lancaster and Transport 2000 patron Jenny Agutter

Sardines and jam

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

SARDINE Man has been joined by city MP Mark Lancaster in a campaign to tackle rail overcrowding.

The MP for North East Milton Keynes joined campaign group Transport 2000.

The group is trying to improve and expand services for passengers with its 30-year rail strategy.

Actress Jenny Agutter, star of The Railway Children, is also backing the campaign.

Over a billion people take train journeys each year and a 30 per cent growth in passenger miles has been predicted by 2016.

Sardine Man has been travelling around the country on Britain's most overcrowded trains, talking to passengers.

He is asking people to e-mail their MP to put pressure on the Secretary of State for Transport, Rt Hon Douglas Alexander, to expand rail services and reduce overcrowding.

Mr Lancaster said: "If we are to meet our international obligations on climate change we need to put rail at the heart of a green transport strategy.

"This Government is failing to tackle overcrowding on the railways, instead of empty words and promises it needs to make decisions on capacity-enhancing projects quickly to avoid people turning away from the railways."

Letters can be sent to MPs via the Sardine Man at www.sardineman.org.uk.

Jenny Agutter, Transport 2000's patron, said: "Rail use by passengers and for freight is having a real renaissance and is at its highest level since the 1950s, and still rising.

"This is great news, but the rail network and number of services have not expanded to keep up with demand."

Play leader up for a national award

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

AN assistant play leader from Stony Stratford Children's Play Centre has reached the finals of a prestigious national award.

Linda Kehoe, from Stony Stratford, is a finalist for the Playworker of the Year Award in the 4Children National Star Awards, supported by the Department for Education and Skills (DfES).

The awards shine a spotlight on the work going on within Early Years and Childcare and celebrate the country's most dedicated and inspiring workers in the sector.

The Stony Stratford Children's Play Centre, which is supported by MK Council and has been running for 20 years, offers children from the age of four to 15 an after-school facility at which they can get involved in organising their own play activities.

Linda Kehoe, who has worked at the centre for seven years, has been nominated for the award because of her energy, creativity and dedication.

Linda works tirelessly to put together a range of high-quality programmes and encourages the children to contribute their own ideas.

"I believe I have been nominated for the award in recognition of the wide range of different aspects of play we do," she said.

"It is a prestigious award, and as it is also national I feel very honoured to be nominated."

"I want to say thank you to Dave Butler, the centre's line manager, who nominated me, and Carol Crompton, play development officer at MK Council who has been extremely supportive of the centre."

She added that her work is extremely important to her, and that she loves working with the children who choose to come to the centre.

Energy, creativity and dedication: Linda Kehoe with the children at the Stony Straford children's play centre

Anne Longfield, chief executive of 4Children said: "The 4Children Children's Stars awards are extremely important and are really the BAFTA's of the world of children and young people services.

"These awards celebrate the very best of the children's stars among us.

"They offer us an opportunity to say thank you to all of those who work with children and young people."

The winners will be announced at the Childcare Star Awards final ceremony on June 28 in London, which will be attended by celebrities including the host for the evening, television and radio star Neil Fox and Any Dream Will Do judge, Zoe Tyler.

The DfES is supporting the Star Awards as part of its campaign to recruit more people into Early Years and Childcare.

For more information about a career working in Early Years and Childcare log on to www.childcarecareers.gov.uk or call 0800 99 66 00.

Primary school teachers scoop prizes

TWO teachers have been commended for their hard work setting up a city primary school.

Deputy headteacher of Oxley Park Primary School, Jane Ralphs, won the BT award for teacher of the year in a primary school, and headteacher Cathy Higgins, was presented with a commendation from the NCSL award for headteacher of the year in a primary school.

The awards were presented at the 2007 Teaching Awards ceremony for the East of England, held in Norwich last Thursday.

Mrs Ralphs was one of eleven winning headteachers, teachers, teaching assistants, governors and sustainable schools who each received a Plato, the Teaching Awards symbol of excellence in education.

Runners-up, including Mrs Higgins, were rewarded with a distinction or commendation and an engraved glass award.

Both teachers have been working at Oxley Park Primary School since it was first opened in 2005.

In only two years Mrs Higgins said the school has achieved a great deal.

Commended: Cathy Higgins

Award winner: Jane Ralphs

"The school has been awarded the Basic Skills Mark, Investors in People, and Healthy Schools accolades, and we were rated 'outstanding' in our Ofsted inspection in January."

She added that the fact she and her colleague were both nominated by parents of pupils at the school signifies the school's achievements.

Both teachers said they were delighted to receive the awards.

"The award is for the team really; for all the children and the staff, not just for me," said Mrs Higgins.

Mrs Ralphs said: "I am absolutely astounded.

"In my point of view I get to do the best job in the world every day, and this is just the icing on the cake."

The winners go forward to the televised UK ceremony held in London in October.

Nominations for the Teaching Awards 2008 are now open at www.teachingawards.com

Call for crackdown on 'hoax' emails

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A CITY charity has called for tougher Internet regulations to limit damage caused by hoax emails

Milton Keynes based aid and development charity World Vision has highlighted the negative impact on charities' time resources, caused by hoax and 'phishing' email scams, and calls for one governing body to be empowered to deal with internet hoaxes. The charity claims an email currently in circulation and purportedly from World Vision, is being sent to smaller overseas charities announcing that World Vision has offered them a grant for $1.5million for 'charity development and poverty eradication'.

Recipients are invited to email the sender for a grant application form which they can complete and submit to the World Vision UK office.

Justin Byworth, World Vision's head of international programmes, said the charity have received letters from individuals in Zambia, India, Pakistan and the US, all requesting access to the $1.5million grant they believe they have received

"Each of these letters and emails deserves a reply but this takes up valuable time and diverts efforts from the real focus of our work," he said.

"World Vision and other charities like us, are in the business of creating hope we regret someone is using our name in this instance, to create deception and disappointment for a lot of people.

He added: "Unfortunately, email hoaxes like these are so common and there isn't one coordinated agency which has the power to shut down operations like this."

"We reported the issue to the hoaxer's ISP but within hours, the hoaxer had opened a new email account.

"We'd like to see in place, a single governing body with extensive powers to tackle the growing issue of Internet fraud and hoaxes".

Julie Ellison one of the UK's top acoustic guitarists

ONE of the country's top acoustic guitarists is on hand to help with your strumming.

Julie Ellison, also a critically acclaimed songwriter, will be in MK this coming week presenting a 'guitar clinic' aimed at helping acoustic guitar players get the best from their playing.

Julie's music has had radio airplay across the UK, the USA, Canada and Australia.

The event will be hosted by the Borders store in Milton Keynes on Friday. She will be chatting to visitors from 5pm to 9pm and demonstrating her playing techniques from 6:30pm to 7pm and 7:30pm to 8pm.

The event is free and offers a unique chance to meet one of the most accomplished musicians to emerge from the British acoustic music scene in recent years.

Retirement village up and running

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

PAM Trendle, 87, was the first resident to move into the city's brand new £33.5m retirement village this week.

Mrs Trendle moved from her old address in Shenley Lodge, on Monday, June 25 to the newly opened Lovat Fields Village, in Willen, which provides 258 homes for over 350 local people, aged 55 to 95 and over.

The village, which has been under development since 2004 was given the official blessing last Thursday when The Duchess of Bedford and Mayor of Milton Keynes Mike Barry joined residents on a celebration tour of the facility.

The facilities include a fitness gym and spa pool, restaurant and bar, village shop, arts and crafts centre, village hall, IT/technology suite, hair dressing salon, library, relaxation room, launderette, woodwork shop, well-being centre, greenhouse and gardens.

Mrs Trendle told MK NEWS she was very excited to be beginning her new life in the village.

She said she was attracted to the community as she will have lots of things to do.

She is especially excited about the swimming pool and jacuzzi.

"There is also a café and restaurant so if I don't want to cook I won't have to," she said.

She and her husband, who has now passed away, decided to move to the development in 2003 after attending a meeting during which a video about the village was shown.

"We also visited some friends in Stockport where they had already built a village," she said.

"It was so beautiful, so when we got back home we put our names down."

She added that she has already made friends with other village residents during meetings.

Mrs Trendle will also be able to access care support easily if she requires it.

Lovat Fields Village, the first of two retirement villages planned for the City, represents a pioneering move away from traditional residential and nursing care and allows older people with limited savings to rent or buy properties in a social and active environment, receiving up to 24-hour care support in their own homes if they become frail.

New resident Pam Trendle, 87, looks over the winter gardens in Lovat Fields Village

Cllr Irene Henderson, Council Cabinet Member for Social Care and Older People's services, comments: "Lovat Fields is set to revolutionise the way older citizens lead their lives.

"It provides a superb environment for people over the age of 55 – whatever their income and whatever their abilities or disabilities.

"It gives them freedom and support, as well as excellent facilities – all within a genuine community setting"

Ninety ExtraCare staff will be working in the Village providing social activities, housing advice, nursing support, and information about preventative healthcare as part of the charity's award-winning well-being programme.

The ambition is that villagers will have a home for life where couples can remain together and where residents should not need to be admitted to a hospital or a nursing home environment.

The ExtraCare Charitable Trust is also running a £700,000 local appeal to fund 15 social and leisure centres in the heart of the scheme – which will also be open to residents' families, visitors and volunteers – offering activities such as painting classes, gardening, singing, wheelchair aerobics and dancing.

Village Funding has come from The ExtraCare Charitable Trust, Milton Keynes Council and Focus Futures, with additional support from the Department of Health and Milton Keynes Partnership.

John Payne, Partnership Director for The ExtraCare Charitable Trust said: "The Government wants innovation in the delivery of older peoples' housing.

"As a partnership, we have found a creative solution that is popular with residents who want support and security at an affordable cost, without losing the independence and opportunity that they hold so dear."

Due to the popularity of the village, which has received 750 property applications and already has a waiting list, Milton Keynes Council and The ExtraCare Charitable Trust have announced plans for a second village in Milton Keynes.

The Duchess of Bedford and Mike and Cheryl Barry join with others during a tour of the new development

Prospective Lib Dem leader pays city visit

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

THE Liberal Democrat who could be in line to take over from Sir Menzies Campbell as party leader, was in Milton Keynes last week.

MP Nick Clegg came to meet the city's community safety wardens at the Housing Office in Bradville to highlight the work they do.

Cllr Douglas McCall – cabinet member with responsibility for environment – accompanied him on his visit and took him through the underpass between Bradville and Stantonbury to see the mural produced by local young people.

Milton Keynes Council has just taken on two more community safety wardens to add to the existing team of 17.

Their role is to engage with the community and keep people occupied.

> "It went very well, he spent an hour with the community safety wardens"
> Cllr Douglas McCall

Mr Clegg later gave a speech at a dinner for Liberal Democrat members at the Hilton Hotel in Kents Hill Park.

The visit coincided with speculation in national media that 'Ming' Campbell is to step down.

It is rumoured that Mr Clegg would be the man to take over if ever there is a leadership contest.

Cllr McCall said: "It went very well, he spent an hour with the community safety wardens.

"Some members of the community were using the underpass and were saying 'hello' to the wardens which was good because it shows that they are familiar with them.

"He was very impressed with their work, especially with the fact that they go into schools, and with our partnership working."

Jill Hope, MK North's Prospective Parliamentary Candidate, also met the community safety wardens.

Mr Clegg congratulated the city on winning 'pathfinder' status which will enable the council to work with prolific offenders.

Local Lib Dem members asked Mr Clegg to raise the fact that the Government has just cut £42k from the community safety partnership money in Parliament.

Psst, I'll tell you a story

SPREAD the word, libraries across the city want to tell you a story.

It is part of a year-long programme of monthly storytelling events not just for children.

The event will include cabaret style evenings with tantalising tales of passion and mischief as well as family stories of mystery and mayhem.

'A Year in the Telling' is a partnership between Milton Keynes Council's Library Services and Wolverton-based storytelling company A Word in Edgeways, funded by Arts Council England and Milton Keynes Arts Association.

Cllr Euan Henderson, chair of the Libraries Committee said: "We're always keen to promote libraries as vibrant centres of their local communities and this project will really help us bring libraries alive and reach out to new audiences."

The first event takes place tomorrow night at Bletchley Library in Westfield Road called Echoes of Bangladesh.

It features South Asian traditions and mythology expert Seema Anand.

Tickets are £3, £1.50 concessions.

To book tickets call Bletchley Library on 01908 372797.

Garage owners warned about spate of thefts

GARAGES have been the target of a spate of thefts across Milton Keynes in recent weeks.

Police have issued a warning reminding residents to secure their garages in a bid to deter would-be thieves this summer.

The call aims to combat thieves who see garages as easy pickings because they are often unprotected and lack basic security measures.

The buildings often contain expensive property that can be sold on or implements that can be used to force entry into the owner's home.

PC Chris Bunning, crime reduction adviser for Milton Keynes, has advised garage owners to secure their property.

"Garage doors of the over and over type can be secured by putting padlocks through the inside runners or by fitting padlocks with a hasp and staple on either side of the door.

"Another option is to purchase a garage defender lock; the heavy duty metal arm, padlocked to a base plate that is bolted into the concrete outside the garage door. This prevents the door from being opened.

"If the garage is attached to the house remember to make connecting doors as secure as the front door."

For further information about crime prevention, call Milton Keynes crime reduction office, via the Police Enquiry Centre, on 0845 8 505 505.

COMPETITION

Win a skin care goodie bag

THE Summer months are synonymous with parched skin and as the holiday season is upon us, many people will be moisturising more regularly to keep dry skin at bay.

MK NEWS and DermaSalve have teamed together to give you the chance to win one of five DermaSalve goodie bags, each containing a Body Cream, Face Cream and Hand Cream so that you can get your skin safely through the Summer.

The array of moisturisers on the market is vast but these creams have one thing in common they ALL contain ingredients that have been listed in an EU directive as skin irritants.

DermaSalve skincare products are the first ever moisturising cream range with no known irritants and are specially formulated to care for dry and sensitive skin.

While other moisturising ranges include potentially harmful ingredients that actually dry out the skin and have even been linked to cancer, DermaSalve products contain no alcohol, fragrances, parabens, lanolins or other known irritants.

No other specialist moisturising cream is as compositionally 'pure' as DermaSalve, therefore minimising the risk of skin irritation

DermaSalve creams are easily absorbed and are non-greasy as they contain natural oil based creams.

They cover twice the area of most other creams and the moisturising effect of one application lasts up to 12 hours.

DermaSalve Body Cream, Hand Cream and Foot & Heel Cream retails at around £5.99 for 100ml, DermaSalve Face Cream retails at around £10.99 for 100ml and DermaSalve Baby & Infant Cream retails at around £6.99 for 100ml.

HOW TO ENTER

To win one of five goodie bags on offer, just answer this simple question:

How long does the moisturising effect of one application of DermaSalve last?

Send your entries on a postcard to MK NEWS, DermaSalve competition, unit 34,Brunel Centre, Bletchley, MK2 2ES or email competitions@mk-news.co.uk

Please include your name, address and telephone number. First five correct answers drawn out of the hat wins. Editors decision is final. Closing date is July 6.

MP vows to fight for Post Offices

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

Mark Lancaster and Newport Pagnell Post Master Andy Craddick

FEARS are growing that the city could lose some of its Post Offices after the Government announced it will go ahead with 2,500 closures.

Mark Lancaster, MP for North East Milton Keynes, says something must be done.

He has called for smaller Post Offices to be allowed to sell a wider range of commercial products.

He believes they could become one-stop shops for for local and central government services.

Three Post Offices have closed down in Milton Keynes in the past three years.

Mr Lancaster said: "This Government already holds the record for closing Post Offices faster than any other, now they have confirmed that they are going to shut at least a further 2,500 branches over the next two years.

"This will be a hammer blow to community life across Milton Keynes and cause great unease as we wait to see where the axe will fall next.

"I fear local communities across Milton Keynes will lose their only shop and vulnerable people will lose a service that they depend upon which is why I will fight tooth and nail to keep them open."

Now he has tabled a series of Parliamentary Questions in an attempt to identify where potential closures will be.

Andy Craddick, postmaster at Newport Pagnell Post Office, is heading a local campaign against closure.

The decline in custom followed the Government's scrapping of pension books in 2001.

He said: "We are desperate to get a future."

In 2001 a Post Office Card Account was brought in for receiving benefit payments.

But in January last year, post offices were warned the new card was also to be made extinct, once again reducing income for post offices which receive payment when benefits are collected from them.

Mr Craddick said: "In reducing the amount of services offered at a post office and with benefits and pensions being paid into bank accounts, they have effectively stripped 60 or 70 per cent of our income.

"If I was a shopkeeper I could choose my range of services but as a postmaster I don't get to make those decisions, I have to do what the Government says."

City search on for 'Golden Wonders'

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE hunt is on to find the city's most inspirational older people.

The organisers of the Golden Wonders competition, which highlights the contribution the over 55s make to Milton Keynes, are calling for nominations for people who go the extra mile by improving life in their community and by putting themselves out to help others.

Milton Keynes Council and Milton Keynes Age Concern are jointly promoting the event, which is now in its third year.

Winners of this year's event will receive money to be spent on their favourite community projects.

Kate Page, corporate director for neighbourhood services at MK Council, said: "We are looking for people who are dynamic, really make a difference and are an inspiration.

> We are looking for people who are dynamic, really make a difference and are an inspiration.
> Golden Wonders celebrates the contribution which older people make in their communities.
> Kate Page, corporate director for neighbourhood services at MK Council

"Golden Wonders celebrates the contribution which older people make in their communities.

"It rewards the volunteering spirit. It encourages maintaining independent living, staying active and staying healthy."

Cllr Irene Henderson, cabinet member responsible for social care and older people, added: "We had some great entries last year and it was very uplifting to see that community spirit is alive and well – whatever your age.

"For very many people being over 55 gives the time and opens up opportunities to do all sorts of things that they never did before - from helping in schools to sky diving!"

The categories for nominations are: an inspirational individual or couple over 55; a community project that has contributed to improving the well-being of the over-55s; or a group of younger people who have made a contribution to supporting older people.

MP visits sea cadets as Major presents awards

SEA cadets received a visit from city MP Mark Lancaster last week.

The MP for North East Milton Keynes – himself a Major in The Territorial Army Volunteer Reserve – went to Kiln Farm to see the MK Sea Cadets in their ship as they prepared for the annual Royal Navy Parade.

He was joined by Major Andy Henderson of the Royal Marines, who was welcomed aboard to inspect the unit and make an assessment of its performance.

The cadets demonstrated their skills and teamwork before Major Henderson presented awards and addressed the ship's company.

The Health Oasis

Win a trip to the 'hair doctor'

IF you have tried all the latest products, treatments and even your own hair dresser can't give your hair that head-turning sheen, then we have just the thing for you…

Milton Keynes' very own 'hair doctor' Chris Hayter from the Health Oasis has teamed up with MKNEWS to give you the chance to win the ultimate professional hair care package that will have you looking and feeling like a whole new person.

The Health Oasis is offering someone the chance to win over £100 worth of professional hair care that includes a full hair, scalp and lifestyle consultation and a range of hair care products (including shampoo, conditioner, treatment, heat protection and finishing) to suit your own hair type.

Unlike normal hair salons, Chris possesses a rare understanding and expertise when it comes to hair and scalp health for which she provides specialist advice and treatments that originate from all over the world to create a unique remedy for her clients.

Fondly known as the 'the Hair Doctor', Chris has helped women – and men – bring back life and energy to their hair and has seen the impact this has had in changing people's lifestyles for the better. So make an appointment now and start feeling good about you!

For more information about the Health Oasis or to book a consultation, visit www.healthoasis.co.uk

or call on 01908 607007.

HOW TO ENTER

For your chance of winning a free hair consultation and products, simply answer the following question:

By what name is Chris from the Health Oasis fondly known?

To enter, just send your answer along with your name, address and phone number on the back of a postcard to MKNEWS, 34 Brunel Centre, Bletchley, Milton Keynes, MK2 2ES.

MK has shortage of blood donors

MILTON Keynes residents are not giving enough blood.

Recent research conducted by the National Blood Service (NBS) has highlighted that only 4.9 per cent of the eligible population in Milton Keynes are registered donors. With the national average currently set at 5 per cent of the eligible UK population, this puts Milton Keynes below average.

These findings reflect previous research that shows the rate of donors on the register is falling faster than the demand for blood in the hospitals.

Sophie Spiegler, NBS spokeswoman for Buckinghamshire said: "A mixture of extensive research and hard work has led to a far more efficient use of blood products, resulting in a decreased demand for blood.

"However, our blood donor base is reducing even more rapidly. Around 15 per cent of the donor base is lost each year due to ill health, relocation or retirement.

"Support from any community is vital in keeping stocks replenished.

"We would love to see more people living in the MK postcode area at one of our up-coming sessions.

"With the summer period proving to be a challenging time of year for blood collections, we are encouraging new donors to come forward, roll up their sleeves and help those desperately in need of blood and blood products."

"We are also issuing a gentle reminder to all those existing donors that they can donate every 16 weeks."

The National Blood Service needs to collect 8,000 voluntary blood donations every single day to supply 310 hospitals in England and North Wales.

To be potentially able to give blood you should be aged between 17-59 (though you can give blood on your 60th birthday), weigh over 7st 12lbs (50kg) and be in good general health. Regular donors can give till they are 70. Appointments should be made wherever possible.

Upcoming sessions include Friday, June 29 and Wednesday, July 11 at Church of Christ Cornerstone, Saxon Gate West

Times are 12 to 3pm and 4:15pm to 6:45pm.

For further information or to book an appointment to give blood contact our NationalHelp Line on 0845 7 711 711 or visit www.blood.co.uk

CAR FINANCE PROBLEMS?

Been turned down before? – Not on voters? – CCJ's? – Slow payment profile? – Self employed?

We are Milton Keynes' car finance specialist. We aim to get 100% of finance applications accepted, even those with a poor credit history. In the majority of instances no deposit is required, but this is occasionally not the case. So confident are we of success we will pay £100 to any applicants who fail.

Buyers must be over 18 years, in full employment with a permanent address and a full driving licence.

Some people we have helped recently

1) Mr James Leon has 2 CCJ's he now drives a 51 reg Ford Mondeo.
2) Lucy Drinkle has a slow payment profile and has been turned down for finance by 3 other dealerships, she now drives an 02 plate Renault Clio.
3) John Kennedy is self employed and does not receive payslips, he has been turned down for car finance before, now he drives a new shape Laguna.
4) Deidre Hedges came in for a cheap runabout, because she thought she could not get finance, she now drives a New Suzuki Alto.
5) Mrs Lora Jones had a bad credit history due to losing her job last year, she now drives a beautiful Peugeot 206.

You are 40 and one hell of a good looking woman
How did this miracle happen, That we're so very blessed, So close...and more contented, Than I ever would have guessed.
I never thought that I, Could spend each precious minute, With just one special person, And find happiness within it. I've learned so much from you, About loving, sharing, giving, I know if I hadn't met you, I wouldn't be really living. We're facing life together, We're handling joy and sorrow, I'm glad you're on my side, Whatever comes tomorrow. You're my perfect partner, Sweet lover, trusted friend, We're safe within our love, A love that will never end.
Just to say I love you very much.

Finger on the Pulse to encourage citizenship, entrepreneurship and enterprise among young people

MORE than 40 people attended the recent launch of Pulse MK, an innovative enterprise project that brings education and business together for the benefit of the community, including the mayor of Milton Keynes, local business and community leaders and eleven of the participating schools' Year 9 pupils.

Working with Pulse MK project managers, Countec Education Business Partnership (EBP), pupils from Sir Frank Markham School in Woughton and Leon School and Sports College in Eaton Manor, have been developing a new brand and logo for this innovative project.

At the launch, students presented their ideas to the attending audience at Countec EBP's offices, in Milton Keynes, and after a secret ballot, Pulse MK was chosen as the successful new brand name.

Pulse MK project has been developed, funded and project managed by Business Link, using funds allocated from SEEDA to the Milton Keynes Area Programme, and is designed to bring together two major strands of non-formal learning for young people:

■ Citizenship - the ability to understand the local community and participate fully in its future .

■ Enterprise and Entrepreneurship - the ability to benefit the community through economic activity based on innovation and business skills.

The project is delivered by Countec EBP, the Milton Keynes Education Business Partnership.

Pulse MK aims to increase skills development opportunities at a local level with a holistic approach to both educational and personal achievement.

Citizenship training delivered through non-formal avenues of learning will target young people wide a wide range of ability. Innovative sessions will engage young people and equip them with understanding of why it is important to be a proactive citizen and demonstrate the difference it can make.

The project will deliver Understanding Enterprise and Citizenship training, which will draw upon experience and good practice examples from enterprise in the community.

An Enterprising Project resulting from both strands of training will directly develop Enterprise understanding and galvanise all the skills learnt during the training.

In addition, the Enterprising Project will raise community awareness of the participants helping them make a clearer choice towards making a positive contribution.

The enterprise training will instill a sense of economic awareness helping to build upon the economic activity in the target areas, developing a culture of entrepreneurship within the community, as set out in the MK Area Programme's targets.

WHOSE TURN IS IT ANYWAY?

Madcap Theatre, Wolverton

Saturday, July 7

IT'S comedy time again at the MADCAP in Wolverton on Saturday when the local comics that make up the 'Whose Turn is it Anyway?' team will be improvising their socks off and turning your suggestion into something silly!

The team of performers (sometimes) under the control of their compere will be playing a wide range daft games and singing songs, all unscripted and unrehearsed, using situations and subjects provided by the audience.

The doors open at 7.30pm for an 8pm start. Bar available.

Make sure you reserve your rickets in advance for this always popular show by calling 01908 605502 (and you'll also save on the entrance price).

Tickets £7.50 on the door or £6.00 if pre-booked.

Milton Keynes COLLEGE

Planning to study graphic design, media, interior design, photography, fine arts, textiles – or simply keen to see what the most creative students can produce? Don't miss the event that showcases the work of talented students from Milton Keynes College, in Middleton Hall, from 28 June until 8 July.

Smoke-free

Mark the beginning of smoke-free England on Sunday 1 July in Queens Court with music from local band, the Curvy Love Dogz . They will perform from 11.30am until 4pm in 40 minute sessions. Fantasy Imaging will demonstrate to passers-by and shoppers the physical effects of smoking. This technology takes a person's photograph and can age the image up to about 72. It can then add effects such as smoking and sun damage to the skin.

If you are planning your Summer holidays and are looking for sunscreen, pop in to Sust!, located at the Food Centre, and ask for Lavera, a high quality sunscreen with SPF 40 for people who need very high protection but have sensitive skin. Lavera is completely neutral, free from perfumes, 100% mineral-based and is effective immediately after application. At £5.95, it is also great value!

THE HEINRICH MANOEUVRE
Interpol

YEAH, it's the American spelling. If you ask me though, and I'm fairly sure you didn't, the spelling's irrelevant when the song's as good as this.

The singer still sounds a bit like Ian Curtis, the band still play their indie rock-'n'roll (for want of a better description, and trust me, I do want a better description) as only they know how, but there's more to them this time.

I can't quite put my finger on what the extra stuff is, but whatever it is it works. If you'd been away for a couple of years and wanted to let the world know you were back in business, there are far worse ways to come back than this.

The new album could be something very special indeed if this is anything to go by.

WHEN YOU'RE GONE
Avril Lavigne

WHENEVER I hear a song that features the line; 'I've never felt this way before' or something similar, alarm bells usually start ringing in my head.

Right on cue during this rather dull pop/rock ballad, it crops up during the second verse, but by then I already had an idea of where this song was going.

In fact, I can tell you right now where this song is, it's on the desk, near the PC monitor with a nice, hot mug of tea resting on it.

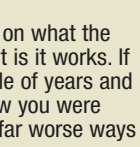
Girlfriend never suffered that fate, but then Girlfriend was far more enjoyable to listen to.

TARANTULA
Smashing Pumpkins

THE theory is that this lot have come back to show the younger bands how it's supposed to be done.

Of course, cynics could argue that if they were that great they wouldn't have split up in the first place, but that'd be a very harsh judgement, and on this evidence, it sounds like the break's done them the power of good.

I'd describe this as a proper barnstormer, but I'm not quite sure why anyone would feel the need to go around storming barns, so I won't. It is, however, a full-on, pedal to the floor, all guitars blazing number and it's not too shabby, either.



STRAIGHT TO THE BANK
50 Cent

MAYBE I've completely misinterpreted what he's saying, after all it's very easy to do that seeing as he always sounds bored stiff, as though the effort of speaking into a microphone is too much like hard work, but if I was a fan of Mr Cent I'd feel a tad insulted by this song.

The first verse is little more than your humble narrator explaining how many millions of dollars he's made, who he's paid, and some of the lovely things he's bought with the royalties. Bless him, he even says: 'I ain't even got to rap now, life is made'.

Well done sir, good for you.

Then we come to the chorus, and if you thought he was bragging before, that's just peanuts compared to this. It's just one line repeated over and over, namely 'I'm laughing straight to the bank with this', backed up with him actually laughing. Yes, that honestly is the chorus. And is he happy? Is he really? No, course not, the second verse includes the line: 'It's never enough dough'. Even the tune can't save this.

SUMMER LIFE

Woburn Abbey craft show promises something for everyone

TWO Days of superb craftmanship are promised at the Bedfordshire Craft Show held at Woburn Abbey.

The event, which takes place on Saturday and Sunday June 30 and July 1, will feature some of the finest craftsmen, artists and designers in the country.

Organisers, Living Heritage Craft Shows, promise more specialist demonstrations than ever before.

People will be able to enjoy everything from glass blowing and lace making to chainsaw carving, stick making, spoon carving and a blacksmith's competition to name but a few.

Special for this years show is a glass blowing demonstration from Ed and Margaret who run their own glass blowing studio in Cheshire.

A demonstration not to be missed.

Away from the demonstrations and attractions children are not forgotten, free puppet shows and amusements, make and take marquee, marionettes plus lots of other attractions are included in the admission price.

Adults £5, OAPs £4.50 and children £2.

Textures

DEVICE
Plus Dead on Time, Darkshine and Sandbuzzard
Friday, June 29
DEVICE got together in summer of 2005 to make some tunes, made some. Their aim is for people to leave a gig feeling like they've been hit in the face with a sweat filled balloon, and to hopefully put some rock and roll back into the world. A blend of hard, progressive rock riffs, melted with some beautiful, melodic, experimental moments and hooky vocal lines, is what they hope to achieve.
Tickets £5.50 Doors 7.30pm.

MIZAROLLI AXE PHENOMENON
Plus Guests
Saturday, June 30
JOHN Mizarolli is one Britain's best Blues/Jazz/Rock guitarists, having taught over 2500 pro and semi pro guitarists and played with Ginger Baker (Cream), Atomic Rooster, Canned Heat, Dave Gilmour (Pink Floyd), Stevie Winwood, The Platters, Little Richard.
Tickets £10 Doors 7.30.

TEXTURES
With special guests Fell Silent, Romeo Must Die and Miramar Disaster
Wednesday, July 4
FORMED in 2001, Textures decided that the only way to truly capture their musical manifesto was to tackle every element of creating an album themselves – from production through to artwork.
The result of these considerable efforts was debut 'Polars', an album practically overspilling with ideas, the Dutch sextet merging the polyrhythmic attack of Meshuggah with Devin Townsend influenced soaring melody and stacks of imagination to epic effect.
Fell Silent having recently completed another successful UK tour and are currently finishing off material to record their debut album over the summer, the band have record labels from UK, Europe and Japan all showing interest in releasing the album once completed.
Fell Silent are true heroes to all kids in MK who love their music heavy, loud and powerful.
Being touted as one of the most exciting young bands coming out of the UK a local band about to seriously make a name for themselves and Milton Keynes.
Tickets £6. Doors 7.30pm

THE STABLES: 280800

CHAS N DAVE
Friday, June 29. 8pm
FOLLOWING last year's sell-out show, Chas & Dave return to The Stables to perform their greatest hits. Expect to hear firm favourites including Rabbit, Ain't No Pleasing You, Gertcha, Sideboard Song, and many more. The legendary cockney duo has a cult following of young and old and even appeared at Glastonbury in 2005.
Tickets £18

THE ROCK EXPERIENCE
Sunday, July 1. 10am-1pm
WE are looking for musicians and vocalists to take part in the ever-popular Rock Experience. Pete Hemsley and colleagues from Milton Keynes Music Service's Rock and Pop School will lead five workshops, coaching and supporting each band prior to their performance on The Stables' stage. If you are interested in rock music and would like the opportunity to perform at The Stables, this is the event for you. Suitable for existing bands or individuals looking to form new bands.
Tickets £6

MUSIC IN THE GARDEN
Lillian Boutte
Sunday, July 1. 12.30pm
LILLIAN is a household name on the international gospel, jazz and blues scene and has sung with some of New Orleans most distinguished musicians. Lillian has performed and recorded with legendary figures such as Lee Dorsey, Jay McShann and Britain's Humphrey Lyttleton.
Tickets £10

MARTIN SIMPSON & ANDY CUTTING
Sunday, July 1. 8pm
MARTIN Simpson is one of the finest acoustic finger-style and slide guitar players in the world. He is a superb interpreter of traditional music and song from Europe and from the American South. Andy Cutting is a soulful and technically outstanding melodeon practitioner with an ear for a fine tune.
Tickets £16

KYLE EASTWOOD
Friday, July 6. 8pm
JAZZ bassist Kyle Eastwood grew up in California and is the eldest son of the Hollywood star Clint Eastwood. After years of paying his dues gigging around New York and Los Angeles, Kyle finally struck a deal with Sony who released his first album, From There To Here, in 1998 which features the vocal talent of Joni Mitchell. Kyle is touring Europe to promote his new album, Now, before returning to America to work on two new film projects with his father.
Tickets £22.50

3.30 The Concert for Diana Live coverage from the new Wembley Stadium, as a galaxy of stars including Elton John, Take That and Lily Allen take part in a concert organised by Princes William and Harry to mark the 10th anniversary of their mother's death and to celebrate her life. (T)

10.00 BBC News; Weather (T)

10.25 Medium Allison and Ariel both dream about the same crime being committed, but cannot agree on who is perpetrating it. (T)

11.05 Seven Ages of Rock The journey through the history of rock music climaxes with a focus on British Indie music. Although once associated with social misfits seeking refuge from the bright processed pop then dominating the charts, The Smiths' first Top of the Pops appearance in 1983 paved the way for the hugely influential Madchester music scene. However, it was the iconoclastic influence of Suede and intense media attention in the Blur-Oasis chart battles in the nineties that brought Britpop to a wider audience. Revealing interviews and rarely seen archive offers an insight into the story which ends with the recent reinvention of Indie by bands like The Libertines, Franz Ferdinand and The Arctic Monkeys. (R/T)

THURSDAY

OPEN University Choir concert. St Michael's Church, Open University, Walton Hall. The OU Choir's summer concert will be a feast of English music from the mid-20th century, with performances of Gerald Finzi's settings of Seven Poems of Robert Bridges and Helen Perkin's settings of five poems by John Keats. Last summer the OU Choir gave what was probably the first performance since they were written in 1957 of two of Perkin's settings: this year the choir will perform all five. Admission is free and all are welcome to this concert in St Michael's Church, Walton Hall, on Thursday 28 and Friday 29 June at 1pm.

TREAD the Boards present Dennis Potter's Brimstone and Treacle at The Madcap Theatre, Creed Street, Wolverton. Thursday to Saturday. "Brilliantly written and made - but nauseating" is how the BBC's Alasdair Milne described Brimstone and Treacle in 1976, before banning the very script that he had commissioned. Some eleven years later, Dennis Potter's creation hit the small screen and has remained controversial ever since. Potter's macabre tale certainly starts innocently enough. A young man returns a wallet he has found to the father of a girl recovering from an accident and professes to have been the invalid's devoted lover. Welcomed into the house as carer by the girl's overwrought mother, he wheedles his way into the family's affections. From the peculiar mannerisms of a stranger in another's home to the contorted speech patterns of a disabled girl, the play highlights how strange and disturbing the seemingly commonplace can be. The 'do-gooder' all the while engaged in secret abuse proves chilling indeed - yet the play ends on a curious note of hope. Not exactly a fun night out but certainly a play to remember - not suitable for under 16s.

TRAVELLIFE

Milton spent a whole novel looking for paradise when if someone had just pointed him towards the Azores he'd have found it in spades. LIZ O'REILLY was lucky enough to visit a land that, until now, has been a closely guarded secret

FAR away places with strange sounding names have long been a passion and the Azores, a group of brilliantly green islands nestling in the Atlantic Ocean almost a thousand miles West of continental Europe, certainly fit the bill.

Split into three groups, the archipelago consists of nine islands. They are Santa Maria and Sao Miguel, in the south, Terceira, Graciosa, Sao Jorge, Pico and Faial, in the centre and the northerly islands of Corvo and most famously Flores site of the 1591 sea battle in which Sir Richard Grenville's Revenge held off the Spanish fleet.

Until recently, getting to the Portuguese Azores from the UK meant travelling via Lisbon but a year ago the first direct flight to Sao Miguel was launched from Gatwick and Azorean airline Sata now makes the journey twice a week on Tuesday and Saturday.

Coming into land on Sao Miguel you cannot help but be taken by just how picturesque this largest of the Azorean islands is.

Formed by a series of volcanic eruptions ranging from four million to 50,000 years ago, the landscape is spectacular with rocky mountainous hillsides swooping downwards into the depths of volcanic lakes.

The climate, which sees temperatures no lower than 11 degrees in winter and rarely higher than 27 degrees in summer, means the scenery displays the many hues of green usually associated with the Emerald Isle.

A high spot of any visit to Sao Miguel has to be a trip to the Lagoa das Furnas, the island's second largest lake where volcanic activity is still close enough to the surface for faint wisps of steam to issue from the dark, bare earth and boiling, bubbling mud to be clearly seen in gaping fissures.

Here you will find the calderas, or holes in the ground, in which are made the famous and unique cozido das Furnas or Furnas stew in which meat and vegetables are lowered in a cauldron into the ground to be cooked for several hours by the bubbling subterranean heat.

Close by is the Parque Terra Nostra, a spectacular garden created by 18th century American businessman Thomas Hickling, including a reservoir swimming pool of warm ferrous water at the centre of which lies an island where the hedonistic Hickling apparently held tea parties.

The Parque is adjoined by a stunning art deco hotel opened in 1933 and faithfully preserved.

After a short time on Sao Miguel we flew to Faial, known as the blue island since in summer it is carpeted with blue hydrangeas, this island is a favourite with yachtsmen, divers and whale watchers.

All the islands attract the denizens of the deep, sitting as they do in the gulf stream and on a migratory route, but the central group offers the chance to spot these ocean going visitors in relatively calm waters - a real bonus if, like me, you have a seafarer's love of adventure coupled with a landlubber's tum.

An early start saw us in a party of just eight heading out into the waters between Faial and neighbouring Pico where we were lucky enough to come across a female sperm whale and her calf.

Staying at a respectful distance we watched as the youngster turned tail up and just about all of us squealed in glee when another giant nearby leaped out of the water to take a look at us.

Bottle nose dolphins played alongside no more than a few feet from the boat and this is one of the few places where you can actually swim with the creatures.

No pens for these Flippers though, in the Azores you simply don your wet suit and chuck yourself over the side taking your chance that the wild ones will fancy joining you.

Later a jeep tour of the island took in the breathtaking caldera, or volcanic crater, at the centre, which is now a nature reserve, and the barren volcanic landscape at Capelhinos on the island's westernmost tip the eerie site of a 1957 underwater volcanic eruption which extended the land by a kilometre.

It would be impossible to visit Faial without being affected by the imposing vista of neighbouring Pico's peak. Site of yet another eruption its head rears above the clouds, claiming the title of highest peak in Portugal.

And no visit would be complete without making the short trip across the water to visit Pico's vineyards, winery and whaling museum.

From a tea plantation in Sao Miguel to street bull fighting on Terceira - in this version the bull actually wins - and from cheese making on Pico to diving among volcanic chimneys the height of skyscrapers, the Azores is truly an island paradise with much to offer.

I truly hope the powers that be will make sure that in the future is doesn't become over developed like so many other far away places before it.

But for now, I'm almost glad I only got to scratch the surface, it means I've got the best possible excuse to go back.

CAFE ROUGE

The Hub, Avebury Boulevard, CMK
Reviewed by Laura Hannam

CAFE Rouge's new restaurant has a candle-lit ambience perfect for couples or groups of friends to enjoy a quiet meal to the lilt of classic French music.

The restaurant, which offers traditional French cuisine, is located in the piazza area of The Hub, on Avebury Boulevard.

It is the first with table service to open in the new development in the city centre, and has room for over 200 diners.

Their external terrace will also be pleasant in the summer months.

The restaurant is open all day, with a good selection of meals on their breakfast, lunch and evening menus.

My guest and I chose to visit the restaurant in the evening.

To start I ordered mussels in white wine, herbs, garlic and cream served with baton de pain (£5.95), which was very enjoyable, and my guest ordered deep fried Camembert with redcurrant and cranberry sauce (£4.95).

For mains I ordered a braised rack of lamb in a rich tomato and red wine sauce served with fresh herb mash and French beans (£12.95).

The lamb was so tender it fell of the bone, and the sauce was delicious.

My guest ordered a blue 7oz prime sirloin steak with melted Roquefort cheese and French fries (£14.20).

He said it was "a perfectly cooked steak that melted in your mouth."

For dessert I ordered a Brittany pancake (or crepe) filled with banana with a warm chocolate sauce and vanilla ice cream (£4.75), and my guest ordered a warm chocolate sponge with a liquid chocolate centre served with creme Angliase (£4.85).

All of the courses were well presented and the portions were good.

My guest and I thoroughly enjoyed the French experience, and would happily return to try other items on the menu.

Lose weight! - and take control of your body

Leighton Buzzard Branch Now Open

ANYONE who has ever been on a diet will know that losing weight is not easy. It is hard to stay motivated and sooner or later, life gets in the way.
But that was until the arrival of SureSlim, a weight loss programme that focuses on healthy balanced meals for permanent weight loss. With SureSlim there are no pills, potions or milkshakes. You won't be asked to spend a fortune on special ingredients or cut food groups from your diet. The SureSlim Eating Plan is nutritionally balanced using normal food available from your local supermarket and you will learn to feed your body well, in a way that fits into your own personal lifestyle. Before beginning the SureSlim programme, every client is given a series of blood tests. These are used to determine their general health as well as to pinpoint specific areas such as cholesterol, anaemia, blood glucose levels, Uric acid, Liver, Kidney and thyroid function. This analysis, together with personal medical history, medication, food preferences, allergies and lifestyle, form the basis of each individually tailored eating plan. Once the blood tests are complete, each individual plan is signed off by SureSlim's resident doctor and results of blood tests are also sent to the clients own GP. So that's the science bit, but how does it work and what exactly does SureSlim involve? The SureSlim concept has been well researched and draws upon a number of different ideas about weight loss and nutrition. Low glycaemic index foods, low saturated fat foods, fruits, vegetables and seeds are all incorporated to compile a healthy and nutritionally balanced eating plan, while still allowing the client to lose weight. The SureSlim Eating Plan does not count calories instead, it looks at the nutritional content of the food and is formulated to help the client see the value of eating healthy food. This is a lifestyle change. The basic plan involves eating three healthy balanced meals a day, using foods from all the food groups and that can be easily bought at any supermarket. These regular meals, eaten at least five hours apart to allow the proper digestion of proteins, helps to keep the glucose metabolism balanced and allows you to control your weight. It is also important to drink a minimum of two litres of water every day. This flushes fat and toxins from your body and has the added benefit of stopping any cravings that may be felt in the early stages of the plan. As SureSlim is designed to fit into any lifestyle, there are a huge number of variations to the standard plan. The current list includes eating plans for all kinds of vegetarian diets, plans for executives who need to eat out regularly, plans for athletes, pregnant women, breastfeeding mothers and even plans to take into account religious dietary laws. There really is something for everyone. If you stick to your individual eating plan, you can expect a weight loss of around 10lbs a month, although naturally, this can vary from person to person. Each individual's target weight is agreed with the consultant at the start of the plan but SureSlim doesn't use any charts or lists to determine ideal weight, the goal will simply be a weight that the person feels happy with. Once the target weight is achieved you then move on to the Lifestyle plan, which is designed to help you maintain your new weight permanently. Throughout the programme you receive one to one support from your consultant. In addition to the initial consultation and weekly weigh-ins, your consultant is also available by email and on the phone whenever you need a bit of extra help and support. By avoiding the one-size-fits-all approach favoured by so many diet plans, SureSlim is able to offer clients the chance to control their weight, boost their energy and feel great, all at the same time.
SureSlim Newport Pagnell has been open at 112 High Street, Newport Pagnell now for nearly 2 years and has hundred's of successful clients. SureSlim Leighton Buzzard opened within The Wholetooth Dental Practice, 1 Enterprise Court, Enterprise Way, Grovebury Road, Leighton Buzzard LU7 4SW on June 4, 2007. SureSlim offers the only truly medical eating plan that corrects Glucose Metabolism by controlling the hormones that control body weight.

SureSlim do a comprehensive blood test as each person has a different metabolism. Our Doctor reviews the blood test along with food dislikes, medication and medical history to produce an Eating Plan specifically for you.

SureSlim's plan works to stimulate or surpress hormones, which helps rebalance glucose metabolism. This results in quick and permanent weight loss. Throughout your weight loss programme you will have private weekly consultations/support sessions.

It was time to face the truth. I wasn't a size 14, I was a size 18!

Kelly lost 5 stone and 21 inches of fat after being horrified by her holiday photos!

"The blood tests showed I had high cholesterol and high sugar levels, but I didn't have to worry as SurSlim showed me how the diet would sort these out. It was only 2 weeks before people started to notice a difference in my body shape and in me."

I tried on a size 22 dress but ordered a size 12 – thinking it would help keep me focused !

Sally lost 4 stone and 25 inches of fat in time for her wedding day!

"The diet is like no other diet I had ever tried, because the weight loss happened so quickly, and I could see the dress sizes going down. I felt that the Wellness Diet was really working for me. I am now on the maintenance plan and the weight is easily staying off"

I have gone from 397lbs to 184 lbs, that's 28 stone to 13 stone!

Eric lost 15 stone and has come off all the medication he was on!

"I feel so much more confident, healthy and happy in all situations. I now swim regularly and can walk up the stairs without getting out of breath. The more weight I lost, the better my blood pressure and cholesterol levels became."

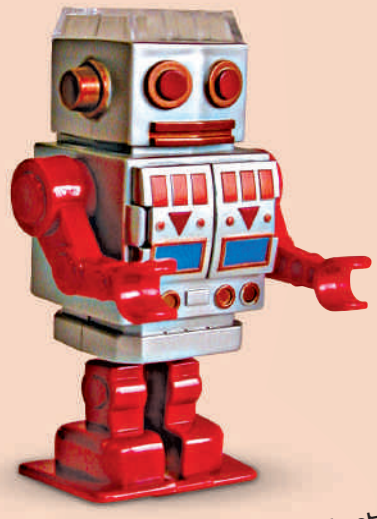
INTRODUCTION

welcome to the first milton keynes science festival – nine days of exciting, entertaining and informative events and activities being held right across the city for all the family to enjoy.

During the festival we'll be covering all aspects of science, engineering and technology; from examining the Earth to exploring space, science at home to measuring brainwaves, robots to secret radio broadcasts.



Some of these events involve demonstrations, others talks - many you can get involved in yourself. most events are completely free!

you can even win prizes in our photography and 'design an alien' competitions.

Find out what's on and when in this programme, but for more information and updates visit www.mksciencefestival.org.uk It's worth coming back to the website regularly for new competitions and experiments for you to do at home too.

We look forward to seeing you!

ACTIVITIES FOR SCHOOLS

During the festival there will also be a wide range of interactive workshops specifically available to schools. Topics include 'How to solve sudoku', 'using Liquid nitrogen to preserve Life' and on-line Astronomy and cosmology observations. These will be accompanied by CPD opportunities for teachers in the lead up to and during the festival.

For more information please visit www.mksciencefestival.org.uk/schools

SPACE

The final frontier. How many times have you gazed up at the night sky and wondered what's really out there? We're as fascinated about the universe and our place in it as we've ever been, so why haven't we been back to the moon for 35 years? Find out more about the stars and planets and what it's actually like to go into space.

WOMEN IN SCIENCE

The earliest woman recorded in science is an Egyptian, merit ptah in 2700BC, described in an inscription as 'chief physician'. yet it wasn't until 1903 that marie curie became the first woman to win a nobel prize for her work in physics. so if women have contributed to science from its earliest days, why hasn't their work received recognition? And why are fewer and fewer women getting jobs in science, engineering and technology? Join our debates or just have an informal chat about the obstacles – and the opportunities – for women in science today.

In the 1950s it was widely predicted that by the year 2000 robots would be living happily in our homes and helping us with the cleaning, cooking and ironing. So just how close is the dream from reality? See how far robots have come and some of the invaluable, and sometimes just plain fun, things they can do.

EVERYDAY SCIENCE

From microwave ovens to motor cars, science is at work all around us. Come and find out what makes everyday objects work - there's also a rare opportunity to see a replica of the world-famous Urey-Miller machine in action, which caused great excitement in the 1950s by demonstrating how life could have originated on the barren, primitive Earth...

Make sure you relax and switch off on your hols

ACCORDING to a new report most people worry about work while they are on holiday and fear for their job when they are away from the office.

A survey of 1,800 workers by employment law firm Peninsula found that many found it difficult to relax and switch off from work when they had a break, highlighting a 'growing problem' of overworking.

Peninsula claimed that some bosses gave people more work to do just before they went on holiday or did not consider people for promotion if they weren't in the office at the time.

Some people said they were too busy to take all their leave and felt unable to switch off when they did have a break.

"There is no reason why workers should fear for their job while away on holiday," said Peter Done, managing director of Peninsula.

"If bosses take action while people are away from the office, they may be inciting damaging litigation cases."

Another survey carried out by Virgin Holidays found that more than half (56 per cent) of the 2.345 UK adults survey call or text work colleagues while away on their holiday.

The survey also revealed that two-in-five head off on holiday with suitcases of work items, including documents they read by the pool. Almost as many visit overseas internet cafes or log on to their own computer to check workemails and 29 per cent become irritated by the constant work discussions of their partners.

As many as 28 per cent of women feel their partner places more importance on work than their relationship and 39 per cent of people have altered, or would alter, holiday plans for work reasons.

The survey showed that people from East England were the worst at allowing work to interfere with their break, with 75 per cent of them admitting contacting the office while abroad.

Those most likely to head off with a suitcase full of work items are Londoners and holidaymakers from south-east England (both 44 per cent).

Christ the Sower Ecumenical Primary School

'Loving, Learning Growing Together'

New Post - Assistant Headteacher - inclusion
Salary L3-L7 £36,708-£40,590
Required Jan 2008

Christ the Sower is a newly opened voluntary aided school in the rapidly expanding west flank of Milton Keynes. We have delightful and an enthusiastic and committed Staff and Governing Body team.

We are looking for an enthusiastic and sparkling Assistant Headteacher to join the Leadership Team as a co-worker to help lead our school forward to excellence. We want to ensure that all our children have the very best provision to help them achieve their potential. Our new school community welcomes children from many cultures, with many languages and abilities. We have worked hard to ensure needs are met especially for our bi-lingual children and children with SEN and this is a real strength of the school.

You will have a love of learning, an understanding of Christian values and a desire to promote the highest quality education for our children. You will need to be an excellent teacher, energetic, and have a good sense of humour and perspective. Experience of leading an area of SEN, provision mapping and multi-agency working would be an advantage. Personal warmth and a genuine love of children are essential qualities.

We are offering you a beautiful new school building with excellent resources; a supportive Headteacher, staff and Governing Body; first class professional support both from Milton Keynes LA and Oxford Diocese along with opportunities for professional development as the school continues to grow.

For an application form and further details or to arrange a visit to our school, please telephone 01908 867356 or email Christ-the-Sower@milton-keynes.gov.uk

Website: www.cts@milton-keynes.sch.uk

Head of Corporate Services

Circa £50,000 + car allowance + benefits

Our purpose is to create places where everyone is proud to live and this new post will be key in delivering our vision. You will be responsible for a portfolio of services - information technology, human resources, organisation development, continuous improvement and communications - to ensure that managers and front-line staff are equipped with the essential tools they need to deliver excellent services to a wide range of customers and partners.

We are continuing to invest significantly in organisational development and our IT infrastructure, and this post will ensure that these and other corporate services meet the needs of our organisation and provide best value.

You will be a skilled manager and communicator who will ensure that our corporate services are genuinely customer-focused and effective. The ability to deliver on time and on budget is essential as is the need to manage conflicting priorities across a range of diverse functions. Your professional background is less important than your track record of managing and motivating teams to excel and succeed.

If you are interested in this role and would like to find out more, please ring or email Sandra Jackson, PA to the Executive Director (Resources), on 01234 221301, sandraj@bpha.org.uk, for an information pack.

Every five minutes someone in Great Britain and Northern Ireland has a stroke. The Stroke Association is the only national charity solely concerned with combating stroke in people of all ages. Our vision is to have a world where there are fewer strokes and all those touched by stroke get the help they need. Our mission is to prevent strokes, and reduce their effect through providing services, campaigning, education and research. We organise ourselves through nine region structures and country structures in Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland.

Family & Carer Support Co-ordinator - Bedford

£20,214.40 to £22,134.83 pro rata 25 hours per week

Working collaboratively with the NHS multi-disciplinary stroke services team in Bedford you will enjoy working in the community providing a supportive home visiting service to stroke survivors and their families located in North Bedfordshire.

This role is very rewarding, as you will be providing support and help to people affected by the challenges of stroke. You should have a background in the caring profession, ideally with knowledge and experience of stroke or disability. Importantly you will have the ability to communicate well with people and be committed to delivering a quality service. You should also have excellent administrative skills and be able to use your car as part of your business travel remit.

CRICKET

Wet, wet, wet

CRICKET fixtures were once again hit by the weather, several games were postponed, including Stony's game against Finedon Dolben with Oslers Lane suffering heavy floods.

MORRANTS FOUR COUNTIES

DIVISION ONE

EATON Bray collected 30 points from their win against Winslow Town and are now just three points behind league leaders Great Brickhill.

Both sides were up against the conditions as they battled it out on a slow wicket and a sodden outfield.

Despite the elements, John Salmon's score of 54 and 36 from Darren Kerins looked to be setting up a comfortable lead for Eaton Bray.

But David Wise proved handy with the ball collecting 4-31 as Eaton Bray finished their innings 158-8.

Winslow's batting efforts could not match that of their bowling attack and they crashed all out for 67, with Andy Norris taking 5-13, giving Eaton Bray victory by 91 runs.

GREAT Brickhill were left frustrated with a winning draw as they failed to dismiss a stubborn MK side.

It was Aaran Aris who took centre stage for Brickhill as he smashed 66 runs, with Shannon Tubb adding a helpful 58 to set a target of 237.

MK's Neil Gordon racked up a half century while wickets fell around him, with Tubb's spin causing problems as he took 3-4.

But MK stood firm to finish their innings with 127 runs on the board and one wicket to spare, the draw earned them eight points and keeps them third in the league.

DIVISION TWO

EDDLESBOROUGH moved to just six points behind third placed Aston Clinton after beating them by four wickets.

Clinton were led by a superb knock of 80 from Stuart Robinson as the side reached 190-5 at the end of their innings.

But it proved too easy for Eddlesborough as they raced to the set total and picked up 25 points for doing so.

TRING Park stay second after their 46 run victory against Studham.

Tring's Mark Bater hit seven fours as he top scored with 71, while Geoff Halsall added 63 to the scoreboard.

Studham were chasing Tring's 196-8, but they fell short of the total as Richard Haynes took 3-47 to help dismiss the side for 150.

DIVISION THREE

SHENLEY Church End's win against Caddington keeps them in second place and just five points behind the Open University.

With Caddington first to bat it was left to the Shenley bowlers to restrict their innings and Graham Teagle did his job as he finished with 5-45.

Caddington fell all out for 167 and Anton De Beer continued his fine form for Shenley as he posted 53 runs to give them a five wicket win.

EATON Bray remain mid-table after their six wicket loss to Biddenham.

Josh Peacock was the only Eaton Bray batsman to make any significant contribution to the score as he made 55.

Biddenham's bowling attack were at full force, with Dave Morrish the most impressive taking 4-21, as Eaton Bray fell all out 149.

Morrish continued his stunning performance, top scoring with 75, as Biddenham raced to the total and took 25 points to stay third.

DIVISION FOUR

NORTH Crawley are sitting is second after taking 13 points from their draw with Tottenhoe.

Neither side were all out as Tottenhoe finished their innings 154-9 and Crawley responded with 151-9.

Tottenhoe took 13 points and are currently sitting in sixth place.

BOTTOM placed Cranfield University picked up some much-needed points in their game against Whitchurch.

Cranfield set 204-9 as the total before Whitchurch lost seven wickets as they reached 203.

The draw gave Cranfield 15 points, while Whitchurch settled for 14.

MK took 30 points against Great Brickhill, in their first win of the season.

Jason Hardy was the top scorer of the game with 69 and helped MK set 165 as a target.

The win was never in doubt with Joe Fairbrother taking 5-14 as Brickhill slumped all out for 116.

HARLINGTON'S five wicket win against Stoke Hammond cuts the gap between them and third placed Hammond to just five points.

Hammond were dismissed for 109 and Harlington eased to the total, with five wickets to spare, to take 25 points.

DIVISION FIVE

MK City got back to winning ways against Wing with a 108 run victory.

City were put in to bat first and despite the loss of two early wickets, scored 218 for the loss of six wickets.

It was a determined bowling effort that helped set up the win, with Ashley Moyo and Chris Bovington taking four wickets between them for 35 runs.

Wing were dismissed for 110 runs, the display earned City 30 points and keeps them five points clear at the top of the table.

STEWKLEY were left kicking themselves after they missed out on the chance to move away from the bottom of the table by two runs.

Chasing Little Horwoods 141 total, they fell at the last hurdle as Dave Ell starred with the ball taking 3-29 to dismiss Stewkley for 139, just two runs short of the total.

DIVISION SIX

CUBLINGTON were confined to their sixth loss as they fell 52 runs short of Ivinghoe and Pitstone's total.

Darren Badrick's 77 set up 176 for Cublington to chase, but they were all out for 124.

The defeat keeps them at the bottom of the league and Ivinghoe and Pitstones in third.

CHERWELL LEAGUE

MK Park pulled off a hard-fought 22 run victory at home to Shipton Under Wychwood on Saturday.

Park won the toss and batted on what proved to be a tough day for batsmen.

Youngster Abs Premnath fell early with the total on 11 but captain Graham Simpson and James Sprittles set about building a partnership.

The pair had added 63 for the second wicket before Simpson was bowled for 25 by seamer Chris Panter.

A series of wickets left Park in trouble at 107-6, with Shaun Miller eventually claiming 6-60 and Park were dismissed in the 49th over for 151.

Shipton's reply saw them at 21-2 before Danny Bishop steadied the ship for the away team.

The tough conditions caused the most problems in the game and Shipton eventually folded to 129 all out to give Park the win.

Twenty/20 vision

THIS Monday Northants Steelbacks will take on the Gloucestershire Gladiators in their Twenty/20 cup fixture at Campbell Park.

Gates open at 3.30pm with play starting at 5.30pm.

There will be a licensed bar, refreshments, plus some off-pitch entertainment to ensure a real festival atmosphere. The game will also be televised by Sky.

England's spin sensation Monty Panesar could feature in the game if he finishes England's game against West Indies unscathed.

Tickets are still available and cost £12 adult, £6 under 16's. Call 01604 514455, book online at www.nccc.co.uk or visit the ticket booth in the centre:mk

For further information on the Twenty/20 and other cricket matches visit www.theparkstrust.com or contact The Parks Trust on 01908 255 600.

ICE HOCKEY

Hurricanes' spirit high despite defeats

Not shot shy: Tim Royal, MK Hurricane's net minder was unlucky to be blasted by 13 goals as Solent sailed away with a resounding win in the Ice Hockey Summer Cup competition

MIDWAY through the Ice Hockey Summer Cup competition and MK Hurricanes are yet to win a game, but that has not dampened their spirits.

It is the first time Hurricanes are taking part in the competition, having stepped in at the last minute to replace Chelmsford Nighthawks.

Facing seven other strong sides has proved tough for the Hurricanes side, which consists of ex-junior and senior hockey players aged 18 and over, but with five games left until finals day they are hoping for at least one morale-building win.

In their second game they were subjected to a 13-0 thrashing away to Solent, and despite that the return fixture turned out to be their best performance so far.

Hurricanes had battled hard to earn a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period but a short bench proved their downfall as they walked away with a credible 3-1 defeat.

One player who has shone for Hurricanes is somewhat surprisingly their net minder, Tim Royle, without him the Hurricanes could have been facing far worse score lines.

His fine displays between the sticks has earned him three Man of the Match accolades awarded by the opposing teams.

In recent years the cup has been dominated by a strong Streatham Chiefs side taking the title in both 2005 and 2006, with Cardiff Titans not far behind them.

Having only been established as a side 18 months ago and previously only playing against other teams in friendly match's, Hurricanes record to date before the summer cup stands at played 22, won 15, lost 5 and drawn 2.

If you are an ex-junior or senior player aged 18 or over and fancy playing again contact George Garrett on 07742254834.

■ THE English Premier Ice Hockey League will bring in the shoot-out next year to decide any match that is still tied after overtime.

The shoot-out has been a big success in both the NHL and the Elite League as it brings more excitement and entertainment.

The format will be a best of three scenario and if the game is still tied it will become sudden death shoot-out.

RUGBY

Club looking to woo old players back to rugby

BLETCHLEY RUFC have jumped on board a new scheme to get former players back into the sport.

In the two years after England won the Rugby World Cup in 2003, 50,000 new players took up the sport and the RFU are hoping to repeat that success this year by conducting the first ever nationwide recruitment campaign.

However, this time the Go Play Rugby scheme will focus on players in the 17-30 age group who used to play, but for one reason or another gave up the sport.

Bletchley are already registered as a Go Play participant and have established a team to put to good use the promotional materials provided by rugby's governing body to build a campaign of player recruitment.

Rob Andrew, Elite Rugby Director, RFU said: "Every player who pulls on an England jersey began their rugby at a club or school.

"Strong, flourishing grass roots will nourish healthy England teams now and in the future. Whether you play rugby professionally or for fun, nothing beats the challenge and camaraderie of a great team sport. But for some social players finding a balance between family, work and club can be difficult and they drift away from the sport.

"There are thousands of them who just need a little help and encouragement to come and join clubs again.

"It's good for us as a sport, and it's good for them as human beings.

"That's why Go Play is such a great idea. The Rugby World Cup 2007 will inspire people to come and play the game for the first time, which is great.

"Bringing former players home to the game would also be a great result."

Bletchley have appealed for those who may have last played at school or college, are new to the area and looking to join a club, or perhaps just want to pull on a rugby jersey again, to go down to Manor Fields.

There will be chances for trials whether you want to join the first team squad and play in the South West Division Two East competition, or simply enjoy less demanding rugby amongst their other teams.

MOTOR RACING

Coulthard has spin round Wembley

LAST week David Coulthard took a break from the usual Formula One testing tracks and instead took his car for a spin at Wembley Stadium.

The Red Bull driver took the chance to test out the brand new facilities as he drove the RB3 around the perimeter of the pitch.

But there was a reason behind Coulthard's unusual drive as the Race of Champions will take a break from the usual Stade de France venue and will be held at the home of English football in December.

The event is chance for top drivers, from all disciplines of motor sport, to race against one an other in identical cars to find out who the best driver really is.

This year Coulthard will partner-up in the Scottish team alongside former Rally World Champion Colin McRae as they compete for the Nations Cup.

Coulthard said: "Obviously, Wembley's quite an auspicious venue for any Scotsman. We've had some pretty good moments there, not least beating England in 1967 and 1977.

"Now it's 2007 so I think it's time for another victory for the Celts.

He added: "I can't wait to see what they do with the track. The Stade de France was completely transformed last year and it was a really entertaining circuit to drive on."

The 36-year-old completed four laps of the perimeter path which inevitably was very tight and tricky, whereas when it comes to the actual event 1,800 tonnes of asphalt will be used to lay down the track on the Wembley turf and up 80,000 fans will be watching in the stands.

Meanwhile, his Red Bull driving partner Mark Webber spent three days testing his car for the French Grand Prix this weekend.

After picking up his first points for the MK racing outfit in Indianapolis, the team spent the days at Silvertsone evaluating a new aerodynamic system, but testing was cut short by the British weather.

ATHLETICS

Craig's best

CRAIG Pickering stole the show romping to victory in the 100 metre's at the European Cup in Munich and earning the accolade Athlete of the Competition.

The Milton Keynes sprinter, on his senior British debut, smashed his personal best time, running in 10.15 seconds and left France's Martial Mbandjock flagging behind in second place in Saturdays run.

The stunning running display is also an MK Athletics Club record and earned the men's side eight points as they finished fourth in the overall competition to remain in the top flight of European athletics.

After the race Pickering said: "I'm very pleased with that. I did not get the best start but towards the end it went quite well."

The 20-year-old European Indoor silver medallist also took part in the 4x100m relay alongside Tyrone Edgar, Marlon Devonish and Mark Lewis-Francis, the team won the event in the fastest time in the world this year, 38.30sec.

But Pickering was also brought back down to reality when he took part in the 'B' relay on the final day.

He was chosen to run the second leg for the British side, but the race ended there when his changeover with Edgar ended with them dropping the baton.

Pickering's development was set to be tested to the maximum later next month at the Norwich Union British Grand Prix, but he has opted out to take part in the European Under-23 Championships.

Pickering's coach, Malcolm Arnold said: "Winning championships is important. Learning to compete is essential and the ability to win is important. Craig can compete. It was the same with Colin Jackson and Linford Christie. When they were competing, they were dangerous."

Today Pickering is racing in Ostrava, in the Czech Republic, and in Athens on Monday night.

■ KADI-ANN Thomas' decision to opt out of Great Britain's women side proved to be the right one.

She was rewarded with a gold medal in the 100metres at the England Athletics Championships in Bedford.

Thomas improved her 11.59 heat time to take the title in 11.52seconds.

MKSPORTSSHORTS

Olney lift trophy

OLNEY RFC's under 16s, representing Milton Keynes Lexus, were crowned the winners in the national finals of the Lexus 12-a-side tournament at St Albans.

Having won through to the finals with a string of fine victories in the Midlands and North East qualifying tournament earlier in the season, Olney were expecting the competition to be of the highest calibre and they were not disappointed.

In the first match of the day, Olney came up against strong side from Doncaster, the game was predictably close with Olney securing a hard-fought win by two tries to one.

Reading were Olney's second opponents, but they had no answer to a display of open flowing rugby that saw victory sealed by two tries to nil.

The surprise package of the day turned out to be Penrith who showed a fine mix of power and guile in running Olney very close in a game decided by a single try.

As expected, the final against Penrith provided Olney's toughest challenge and fiercely contested.

The game was truly an end-to-end affair but as full time approached and it was starting to look like extra time would be needed, a fine break out of defence from winger Matt Reeder started a stunning 80 metre move in which the ball passed through many sets of hands before scrum-half Steven Dennis sent prop Kenny Small galloping under the posts.

The boys were presented the Lexus trophy by England World Cup and Saracens hero Richard Hill, completing a memorable treble of Bucks Cup, Premier League and Lexus trophy.

Third for Roy

MILTON Keynes driver Supradip Dey Roy claimed his first podium as he finished third in round three of the British Rally Championship Stars 1400 Championship, the Rally of the Midlands, last weekend.

Roy and co-driver Max Hall safely brought home their 1400cc MG ZR to claim 16 points on the series leader board as they also ended-up second in the FIA class and 31st overall on the three-day tarmac event.

The Indian driver had a relatively smooth run across the 100 miles of competitive stage action on the Nuneaton-based rally. On Saturday morning the crew nudged an Armco barrier on the Mallory Park test but only picked-up superficial damage to the front panels of the car, which did not affect their performance other than losing them some time.

A problem with the limited slip differential hampered them somewhat throughout the rest of the event from Saturday afternoon but Roy's main aim was to complete the rally and collect the championship points on a rain-soaked final day on Sunday after seeing several of his series rivals drop out.

Roy will next be in action across the tarmac of the Isle of Man-based Manx Stars Rally.

The event is a double-header as it forms rounds four and five of the British Rally Championship Stars 1400 Championship on Friday 20 and Saturday 21 July.

New Dons boss Paul Ince

'We're going to have fun'

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

PAUL Ince was unveiled as MK Dons manager on Monday, but will have to wait until Friday to meet most of the players.

With a long season ahead and pre-season friendlies scheduled in for next month the majority of the team are still on their holidays.

Ince will meet with the players on Friday to discuss his plans and ambitions for the club before the team jet-set to Portugal on Monday for pre-season training.

Ince told MK NEWS the team will spend seven days out in Portugal to allow him to get to know the players and prepare for a busy football season.

He said: "When we come back we will start going into our games. We'll do a few runs around the golf course, get them fit and we'll be ready to go.

"The most important thing, even though there is pressure and expectation around this club, you've got to have fun.

"If you don't have fun, you won't get anywhere."

Fans will be pleased to hear Ince, who resigned as Macclesfield manager on Sunday, is determined to get the Dons into League One and believes he can do it next year.

When asked what his aim is for next season, he replied: "Promotion by any means, it's not how you get there, as long as you're there.

"Obviously, in an ideal world it would be nice to get automatic promotion.

"It's not going to be easy, just because we've got a great stadium and fantastic fans it doesn't mean we've got any divine right to go and get automatic promotion."

Dons Chairman Pete Winkelman admitted he was "absolutely thrilled" to appoint Ince as manager and believes he is the right man for the job.

"I can never know for certain that we are going to get promotion, but I think he has got every chance of getting us there." Winkelman said.

"I think the biggest appeal is that he has no fear and perhaps I've been a little scared over the last 12 months.

"I can't wait to work with him, he's a very warm individual.

"He's got tremendous ambition, tremendous enthusiasm and passion for what he does."

But the first thing on Ince's to-do list is tackle the Milton Keynes road system.

He said: "It's a unique place, I keep getting lost on the roundabouts, I just want to get used to them at the moment!"

Hammers old boy faces friendly fire

WHILE glancing over MK Dons' up coming fixtures, one game would have stood out like a sore thumb for new manager Paul Ince, a pre-season friendly against West Ham United.

His appointment has certainly added a new element to the game, but Ince has come up against his former club before and knows exactly what reception to expect.

"Probably a hostile one." Ince then joked: "But I'll be upstairs with the chairman so it doesn't matter to me!"

Ince started his career with the Hammers back in 1985 and made 72 appearances for them before moving on to Manchester United.

Ince added: "I'm not really that worried about it, all I'm worried about is the first game which is against Bury at home."

Dons Chairman Pete Winkelman also laughed at the irony of the fixture, he said: "You couldn't write it in a book, could you?

"It's a great irony, I've spoken to Paul about it and West Ham were his first club.

"It certainly will make people take more interest in the West Ham game."

But Winkelman is just hoping people enjoy the day at one of the first games in the new stadium.

He said: "I'm hoping he will get a good reception not just from our fans, which undoubtedly he will, but from the West Ham fans too.

"Maybe that's a little too much to wish for!"

The game is set to take place on Wednesday, July 25, kick-off is at 7.45pm.

■ MK DONS will feature live on SKY after they announced the first round of live televised games.

The Dons game at home to Lincoln City is one of only two matches from League Two to be chosen. It takes place on Sunday, October 14, kick-off 1.30pm.
